The region has been used to understand and propose solutions to phenomena and problems outside the dominant spatial scale of the twentieth century the nation state Its influence can be seen in multiple social science disciplines and in public policy across the globe But how was this knowledge organised and how were its concepts transmuted into public policy This book charts the development of the academic field of Regional Studies and the application of its concepts in public policy through its learned society the Regional Studies Association In their modern form learned societies often play a complementary role to universities offering networks that operate in the spaces between and beyond universities connecting specialised academics and knowledge and making it possible for them to have impact outside the academy In contrast to the geographically tangible and popularly understood role of the university contemporary learned societies are nebulous networks that transcend barriers and whose contribution is difficult to discern However the production and dissemination of knowledge would be stunted were it not for the learned society connecting scholars through a network of publications and events This book traces the intellectual history of regional studies and regional science from the 1960s into the 2000s and the impact of the regional concept in public policy through the changing priorities of government in the UK and Europe By approaching the history through the Regional Studies Association it interrogates the role and function of the learned society model of organisation in contemporary academia and importance as a knowledge exchange vehicle for public policy influence

Resources in Education ,1998 African Renaissance and Discourse Ownership in the Information Age Eric van Grasdorff,2005 The information revolution is transforming the world especially the industrialised world But what are its implications for the implementation of an African renaissance Based on a Foucaultian analytical framework this book argues that the Internet has become a major Western instrument of domination in Africa By extending the reach of Western hegemonic discourses the Internet adds another dimension to Western discursive power However by allowing for the active participation in the process of naming the world the Internet also affords unprecedented means of transcending dependency
