

NEW YORK ART REVIEW

The background of the cover is a complex abstract composition. It features a dark, textured area on the left side, possibly representing a grid or a series of lines. On the right side, there are several vertical, rectangular blocks of varying heights and widths, colored in shades of orange, yellow, and red. These blocks appear to be part of a larger, stylized architectural or geometric structure. The overall color palette is dominated by warm tones (orange, yellow, red) and dark tones (black, dark red).

Griffin,2004

Randall Griffin's book examines the ways in which artists and critics sought to construct a new identity for America during the era dubbed the Gilded Age because of its leaders' taste for opulence. Artists such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Thomas Anshutz explored alternative American themes and styles but widespread belief in the superiority of European art led them and their audiences to look to the Old World for legitimacy. This rich, never-resolved contradiction between the native and the autonomous, on the one hand, and on the other, the European and the borrowed, serves as the armature of Griffin's innovative look at how and why the world of art became a key site in the American struggle for identity. Not only does Griffin trace the interplay of issues of nationalism, class, and gender in American culture, but he also offers insightful readings of key paintings by Eakins and other canonical artists. Further, Griffin shows that by 1900 the nationalist project in art and criticism had helped open the way for the formulation of American modernism. Homer Eakins and Anshutz will be of importance to all those interested in American culture as well as to specialists in art history and art criticism. De Kooning John Elderfield, Willem De Kooning, Lauren Mahony, Jennifer Field, Delphine Huisinga, Susan Lake, 2011. This publication offers an unparalleled opportunity to appreciate the development of the artist's work as it unfolded over nearly seven decades, beginning with his early academic works made in Holland before he moved to the United States in 1926 and concluding with his final sparsely abstract paintings of the late 1980s. Meyer Schapiro's Critical Debates C. Oliver O'Donnell, 2019-10-14. Described in the New York Times as the greatest art historian America ever produced, Meyer Schapiro was both a close friend to many of the famous artists of his generation and a scholar who engaged in public debate with some of the major intellectuals of his time. This volume synthesizes his prolific career for the first time, demonstrating how Schapiro worked from the nexus of artistic and intellectual practice to confront some of the twentieth century's most abiding questions. Schapiro was renowned for pioneering interdisciplinary approaches to interpreting visual art. His lengthy formal analyses in the 1920s, Marxist interpretations in the 1930s, psychoanalytic critiques in the 1950s and 1960s, and semiotic explorations in the 1970s all helped open new avenues for inquiry. Based on archival research, C. Oliver O'Donnell's study is structured chronologically around eight defining debates in which Schapiro participated, including his dispute with Isaiah Berlin over the life and writing of Bernard Berenson, Schapiro's critique of Martin Heidegger's ekphrastic commentary on Van Gogh, and his confrontation with Claude Lévi-Strauss over the applicability of mathematics to the interpretation of visual art. O'Donnell's thoughtful analysis of these intellectual exchanges not only traces Schapiro's philosophical evolution but also relates them to the development of art history as a discipline, to central tensions of artistic modernism, and to modern intellectual history as a whole. Comprehensive and thought-provoking, this study of Schapiro's career pieces together the separate strands of his work into one cohesive picture. In doing so, it reveals Schapiro's substantial impact on the field of art history and on twentieth-century modernism. Walker Evans Judith Keller, 1995-11-02.
