The Niagara Escarpment From Tobermory To Niagara Falls:

The Niagara Escarpment William Gillard, Thomas Tooke, 1975 The Niagara Escarpment William Gillard, Thomas Tooke, 1975 The Niagara Escarpment, 2006-10-10 With more than 100 beautiful colour photographs from dozens of communities this book will be savoured by all those who treasure this precious landscape The Niagara Escarpment stretches more than 700 kilometres from Niagara Falls through Hamilton to Tobermory on the tip of the Bruce Peninsula before dipping under Georgian Bay Designated a United Nations biosphere reserve in 1990 the meandering ridge is home to over 300 bird species and other wildlife many of Ontario's rare plant species and the oldest old growth forest east of the Rocky Mountains The Bruce Trail the pre eminent walking trail in southern Ontario created by naturalists working with private landowners now winds along its length The photographs of Sandy Bell Vic MacBournie and John MacRae taken from more than seventy points south to north show the Escarpment in all its variety moods and seasons Providing background on the story of the protection of this precious landform and the continuing challenge of demands for resource extraction and urban expansion is an introductory essay by Joan Little a resident and friend of the Escarpment who has worked with citizens and government to preserve its unique features Protecting the Ontario Niagara Escarpment Donald H. Avery, 2025-08-29 Protecting the Ontario Niagara Escarpment explores the intersection of politics and conservation business and public interests and government and not for profit organizations over more than six decades to protect what is today a UNESCO World Biosphere Reflecting on both environmental activism and government stewardship author Donald H Avery captures an important period in Canadian environmental history Starting with an overview of the North American conservation movement in the 1960s and the important 1968 Gertler Niagara Escarpment Study he examines the different work done by conservation organizations such as the Coalition on the Niagara Escarpment CONE statutory bodies such as the Niagara Escarpment Commission and government departments and agencies to protect this unique landform until the present day As part of his assessment Avery examines the goals and strategies of competing social groups including mining interests commercial real estate developers landowners groups and environmental organizations while providing insight into how they used the political system to achieve their specific goals This research is based on a wealth of environmental organizational records government documents news articles and interviews with Niagara Escarpment Commission staff that demonstrates how environmental activism and government stewardship made a difference Guide to the Geology of the Niagara Escarpment Walter M. Tovell, Niagara Escarpment Commission (Ont.), 1992 Beyond the Global City Gordon Nelson, 2012-05-08 Policies promoting Toronto as a global city and provincial economic engine have been seen as beneficial to the development of all of Ontario yet much of the province has borne significant environmental social economic and political costs as a result of one city's growth Contributors to this volume call for a radical re imagining of public policy at local provincial and federal levels that accounts for Ontario's overlooked regions Beyond the Global City presents a kaleidoscopic view of the province the rich fields and small towns of the southwest the productive agricultural lands of rural Huron County historic Kingston and the Upper St Lawrence the social and cultural diversity of the Ottawa valley the near mythical woodlands and waters of Muskoka and Georgian Bay and the heavily exploited coasts and waters of the Great Lakes to provide a deeper understanding of its various communities In a series of regional studies contributors describe each area s distinctive qualities and challenges and offer recommendations about what is needed to move them forward in a more equitable and sustainable way Two initial historical chapters lay the framework for the regional discussions while cross cutting and integrated chapters analyze the state of natural and cultural heritage and current development theory provincially offering guidance for the future
