The Nickson View II:

The Nickson View II Victor L. Nickson, 2003-01-27 The historic covered bridge in the shadow of Atlanta Georgia had been the site of Civil war battles secret meetings and stolen kisses But not until the body of Sam Jones washed up there on that stormy night on the mid 1960 s had there been such mystery surrounding the bridge The question wasn't Who would kill Sam but Who wouldn't The reader is introduced to a host of intriguing characters all of whom has reason to despise and perhaps murder Sam Through the pitiful life of his widow Martha Douglas Jones the resounding and heartbreaking theme of the novel is borne out our lives are the product of choices we make in a single moment of time Will Martha manage to escape the grim sentence of her life with Sam or will he continue to bring her misery even in death Nickson View Two Victor L.

Nickson, 2002 The Virtue of Bonhoeffer's Ethics Jennifer Moberly, 2013-06-19 Does Dietrich Bonhoeffer's Ethics have any affinities with what we have now come to call virtue ethics If so what is the relationship between those affinities and the more widely recognized influence of Karl Barth Moberly seeks to answer these questions through close analysis of the Ethics and engagement with other interpreters of Bonhoeffer while discussing the nature of virtue ethics in a Christian context The answers may be surprising but they are certainly rewarding for anyone wanting to better understand Bonhoeffer and to see how his work could be helpful for current ethical debates Register of the University of Oxford University of
