John Adams Joseph Cowley,2009-07 John Adams could be and was on occasion cantankerous stubborn tactless even rude He was also prone to vanity and self pity and sensitive to what he perceived as slights or attacks on his reputation or character He also had a lust for fame as did many involved in the founding of this nation But if fame was the spur it was also the driving force behind Adams enormous energy energy guided by a strong sense of honor and duty that was built into his character and stayed with him his whole life Adams was a realist with a profound sense of what people en masse are all about He seems to have drawn that knowledge from his understanding of himself He knew that each of us has the capacity for good or evil and the government of checks and balances he envisioned for the new nation they were building took this into account Victory in the long struggle for freedom was certainly not assured Many were Tories who wished to continue as British subjects Many cared but not enough to fight for the cause We can be thankful for those who did who initiated and carried on the War for Independence Among them were the best and brightest the colonies had to offer These were the people who tendered their lives property and sacred honor as collateral in the struggle for freedom We can be grateful that John Adams was among them
