Hall, 2009-09-15 The Colonial Book in the Atlantic World carries the interrelated stories of publishing writing and reading from the beginning of the colonial period in America up to 1790 Three major themes run through the volume the persisting connections between the book trade in the Old World and the New evidenced in modes of intellectual and cultural exchange and the dominance of imported chiefly English books the gradual emergence of a competitive book trade in which newspapers were the largest form of production and the institution of a culture of the Word organized around an essentially theological understanding of print authorship and reading complemented by other frameworks of meaning that included the culture of republicanism The Colonial Book in the Atlantic World also traces the histories of literary and learned culture censorship and freedom of the press and literacy and orality Contributors Hugh Amory Ross W Beales The College of the Holy Cross John Bidwell Princeton University Library Richard D Brown University of Connecticut Charles E Clark University of New Hampshire James N Green Library Company of Philadelphia David D Hall Harvard Divinity School Russell L Martin Southern Methodist University E Jennifer Monaghan Brooklyn College of The City University of New York James Raven University of Essex Elizabeth Carroll Reilly Hardwick Massachusetts A Gregg Roeber Pennsylvania State University David S Shields University of South Carolina Calhoun Winton University of Maryland Sailing School Margaret E. Schotte, 2019-07-30 Hands on science in the Age of Exploration Winner of the John Lyman Book Award in Naval and Maritime Science and Technology by the North American Society for Oceanic History and the Leo Gershoy Prize by the American Historical Association Throughout the Age of Exploration European maritime communities bent on colonial and commercial expansion embraced the complex mechanics of celestial navigation They developed schools textbooks and instruments to teach the new mathematical techniques to sailors As these experts debated the value of theory and practice memory and mathematics they created hybrid models that would have a lasting impact on applied science In Sailing School a richly illustrated comparative study of this transformative period Margaret E Schotte charts more than two hundred years of navigational history as she investigates how mariners solved the challenges of navigating beyond sight of land She begins by outlining the influential sixteenth century Iberian model for training and certifying nautical practitioners She takes us into a Dutch bookshop stocked with maritime manuals and a French trigonometry lesson devoted to the idea that navigation is nothing more than a right triangle The story culminates at the close of the eighteenth century with a young British naval officer who managed to keep his damaged vessel afloat for two long months thanks largely to lessons he learned as a keen student This is the first study to trace the importance for the navigator's art of the world of print Schotte interrogates a wide variety of archival records from six countries including hundreds of published textbooks and never before studied manuscripts crafted by practitioners themselves Ultimately Sailing School helps us to rethink the relationship among maritime history the Scientific Revolution and the rise of print culture during a period of unparalleled innovation and global expansion
