Nation-Building, State and the Genderframing of Women's Rights in the United Arab Emirates (1971-2009)

Vania Carvalho Pinto,2022-07-01 In the United Arab Emirates the extensive change to Emirati women s traditional rights and roles has been one of the most visible transformations taking place throughout the country s 40 years of modern history This book offers an interpretation of why and how these modifications came about The book discovers that there is no direct or easy link between the State s offer of rights towards women and society s acceptance of them Given these circumstances the mechanisms that induce women to actually take advantage of what is offered have not been given sufficient attention The concept of genderframing aims precisely at defining the connecting mechanism and explaining the successes and failures of these policies both mobilization wise and implementation wise The term genderframing refers to a dynamic and interactive process between the State and its population which entails the symbolic rework of meanings associated with women related policies It is argued that such re interpretation has been purposefully conducted by the Emirati State in order to portray the changing roles of women as necessary and desirable for reasons associated with nation building purposes religious conformity promotion of family values and efforts at indigenous cultural preservation The book highlights the profound intertwining of gender nation building and domestic socio political dynamics in a country that while seeking to establish its modernizing credentials is still struggling for self definition and empowerment Christianity in Oman Andrew David Thompson,2019-10-31 This book explores the relationship between the distinctive Islamic beliefs Ibadism of Oman and how they define the experience of the church with regards to religious freedom Oman is a nation with a long and glorious history
