Audubon's Birds John James Audubon, Natural History Museum (London, England). General Library, 1992

The Bird Illustrated, 1550-1900 Joseph Kastner, Miriam T. Gross, New York Public Library, 1988

Man's fascination with birds, the only other two-legged creature on earth, goes back to drawings scratched into the walls of prehistoric caves in France and Spain, carved on Paleolithic bones or painted in Egyptian tombs. As Roger Tory Peterson writes in his introduction, whatever this attraction is, the desire to observe, record, and study birds has occupied men for millennia. As early as 1551, that study had found its way into the printed book with the publication of an eight-hundred-page volume on birds in Conrad Gesner's encyclopedia Historiae animalium. From that moment, books on ornithology came in increasing numbers, written and illustrated by a breed of watchers whose patience, skills, and courage in the field were a tribute to their dedication. Some of them are especially well known to us today: John Gould, John James Audubon, Edward Lear, and Josef Wolf. But countless others achieved fame and made us increasingly familiar with the marvelous ways of birds: Ulisse Aldrovandi in Italy, Pierre-Benjamin Le Comte de Buffon in France, Moritz Borkhausen in Germany, Cornelius Nozeman in the Netherlands, Theodor Pleske in Russia, Philipp Franz von Siebold in Japan, John Ray, Thomas Bewick in England, and in America, Alexander Wilson, Mark Catesby, Titian Ramsey Peale. The Bird Illustrated, 1550-1900 is a pictorial celebration of these pioneers based on the superb collections of the New York Public Library. Nature lovers and art lovers alike are treated to an unsurpassed bibliographic aviary chosen from the Library's rare and historic books. Rendered in woodcut engraving or lithograph and hand-colored or printed, the originals are beautifully reproduced in 45 full-color plates and 54 duo-tone photographs. All manner of birds flutter and strut across these pages: falcons and pheasants, nightingales, kingfishers, swallows, and sparrows, grebes and gulls, cockatoos, toucans, and resplendent hummingbirds once described as flying jewels. There is Edward Lear's wonderfully grotesque flamingo, John Gould's Darwin finch drawn by his wife, Elizabeth, Alexander Wilson's American Bald Eagle drawn against the setting of Niagara Falls where he watched the bird in flight. There are portraits as exotic as fantastic birds of paradise and as ordinary as Bewick's barnyard rooster and as curious as the disappearing Dodo, that extraordinary production of nature. Here is the history of the Barnacle Goose, which was once thought to have actually hatched from barnacles. And here are the stories of ornithologists navigating the frigid water ways of Patagonia to observe penguins braving the spears of suspicious aborigines or walking out to their own backyard to hear a cardinal sing in order to explore and record the avian world In his engaging and colorful text Joseph Kastner brings to life these valued tomes and in doing so pays glowing homage to the ornithologists who studied them Complementing the illustrations are description captions by Miriam Gross of the New York Public Library relating life cycles of the many birds surveyed here as well as the artistic techniques used to depict them In the mid 1500s When Ulisse Aldrovandi was asked why he chose to compile his natural history of birds he explained the task was accompanied with the most exquisite gratification and astonishment He may have been speaking for those readers today who in The Bird Illustrated have an opportunity to experience that same satisfaction Provided by publisher The Birds of America, from Drawings Made in the United States and Their Territories John James Audubon, William MacGillivray, 1871 Treasury of Audubon Birds in Full Color John James Audubon, 1993-01 Birds of America Audubon's ornithological masterpiece towers above all other works of its kind vast in its coverage of bird species each portrait scrupulously accurate in every detail the apex of the nature illustrator's art This exciting new volume contains 224 of the best plates selected from the 500 plates in the original work reproduced original size in full color directly from the rare octavo edition valued at 20 000 00 Included are the snowy egret wild turkey brown pelican screech owl Carolina parakeet black capped chickadee glossy ibis mallard American flamingo and many others Extraordinary care has been taken to achieve meticulously faithful reproductions capturing all the nuances of color and detail that make the original plates true works of art A remarkably handsome beautifully produced volume this affordable new edition will be welcomed by fine art and nature lovers ornithologists and birders and lovers of fine books These plates are also an excellent source of full color bird and nature illustration for art and craft use The birds of America ,1856 The Birds of America John J. Audubon, 2021-02-17 A General History of Birds John Latham, 1821
