

HIGHLY QUALIFIED PRAISE FOR

snobbery

"What Joseph Epstein calls snobbery, I should much prefer to call snobbishness, the various manifestations of which in our world, your 'ignorant' boast, is over in a second. Still, Mr. Epstein is concerned with a certain rough-hewn intelligence, which renders him a rare one whom, I should say, not everything is lost."

— Henry James

"Indisputably delighted by paradox, of which the social world is still more readily taken, Mr. Epstein is, I discover, capable every so often of writing off a sentence that arrests the attention — arrests it, alas, and the two words are a loss to readers. His no doubt justified concern over a point of this essentially critical subject is, it goes without saying, thoroughly to be deplored."

— Owen Wilde

"Mr. Epstein quotes me rather frequently in his handsomely annotated introduction, whether he understands me in all cases or whether he merely wants to have the right to quote upon him. I have never been to America, and cannot speak to the accuracy of his pronouncements about the particular of the social preoccupations in that foreign country. The book's framework, as it speaks, seems to me sound as far as it goes, though I suppose to say this suggests that it ought to have gone a deal further than this. In those matters, what of us can be said to have gone far enough?"

— Harold Pinter

"The most serious of the past hundred years — myself not least among them — Joseph Epstein's essays are in the lower middle class, this class always eager to get a leg up, if only to be able to place an ill-chosen foot on the neck of those below and a knee in the groin of those above."

— Noel Coward
