Social Care Of The Elderly:

Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People David Challis, Paul Clarkson, 2017-03-02 The growing focus on performance review and monitoring means that awareness and use of performance indicators has increased throughout a number of public services. Set within a national context, this book reviews the historical development and measurement issues of performance indicators within social care and the public sector for older people. It then provides an approach to effective local performance measurement in services for older people and an organizing framework within which organizations can arrange their performance appraisal for older people's services. The development of performance review in social care of older people is examined, as is the process of developing local performance measures and engaging staff in enquiry and quality management. The book also reviews the process of developing performance indicators and their utilization at an agency level. Performance Indicators in Social Care for Older People will be of particular interest in the UK for local service providers who are developing approaches for local performance review. It will also be of interest internationally, especially in countries where services for older people are currently developing in a similar direction.

Social Care of the Elderly Marjorie H. Cantor, Mark Brennan, PhD, 2000-02-29 A welcome addition to the literature in this important area of work that builds on the empirical studies which have illuminated our understanding of the requirements of effective service provision. The final section is in a real sense a call for action for all of us in the field and for public officials and opinion makers to respond to the need for Social Care now and in the new millennium. From the foreword by Rose Dobrof, DSW, Brookdale Professor of Gerontology, Hunter College, and James R. Dumpson, PhD, Chairman of Policy Center for Aging, New York Community Trust. Based on two groundbreaking studies of older people in an urban setting, this important book focuses on access to social services for different ethnicities. Cantor and Brennan review different models and provide the theoretical base for the book in Part I. They describe ways in which the complementary roles of informal and formal systems change as a function of the health status of older people. In Part II, they illustrate the ways in which ethnicity, class, and culture affect the roles of the formal and informal systems by focusing on specific case studies of African American, Latino, and Jewish elderly.

Long-term Care for the Elderly in Europe Bent Greve, 2016-12-01 Long-term care is an increasingly important issue in many contemporary welfare states around the globe, given ageing populations. This groundbreaking book provides detailed case studies of 11 EU member states' welfare regimes within Europe to show how welfare states organize structures and deliver long-term care and whether there is a social investment perspective in the delivery of long-term care. This perspective is important because the effect of demographic transitions is often used as an argument for the existence of economic pressure on welfare states and a need for either direct retrenchment or attempts to reduce welfare state spending. The book's chapters will look specifically into how different welfare states have focussed on long-term care in recent years and what type of changes have taken place with regard to ageing populations and ambitions to curb increases in public sector spending in this area They describe the development in long term care for the elderly after the financial crisis and also discuss the boundaries between state and civil society in the different welfare states approaches to the delivery of care

Supporting Family Carers of Older People in Europe Piotr Bledowski, Wojciech Pedich, Barbara Bien, 2006-06 There is no extensive formal care provision or system supporting family carers in Poland. The cohabiting family plays a major role in organizing support for the elderly. Nevertheless, the family carers are not perceived as natural partners for both medical and social services. As a result, caring for the elderly often brings additional costs for the family and restrictions to work and income. This book presents the legal status and social situation of family carers in Poland, explains the range of services available and the possibilities to use help adapted specially for this group.

The Voluntary Sector in the United Kingdom Jeremy Kendall, Martin Knapp, 1996 This book provides an analytical overview of the vast range of historiography which was produced in western Europe over a thousand-year period between c. 400 and c. 1500. Concentrating on the general principles of classical rhetoric central to the language of this writing alongside the more familiar traditions of ancient history, biblical exegesis and patristic theology, this survey introduces the conceptual sophistication and semantic rigour with which medieval authors could approach their narratives of past and present events and the diversity of ends to which this history could then be put. By providing a close reading of some of the historians who put these linguistic principles and strategies into practice from Augustine and Orosius through Otto of Freising and William of Malmesbury to Machiavelli and Guicciardini it traces and questions some of the key methodological changes that characterise the function and purpose of the western historiographical tradition in this formative period of its development

Imprisonment of the Elderly and Death in Custody Aleksandr Khechumyan, 2018-04-17 Over the past few decades there has been a sharp increase in the number of elderly prisoners and hence a rise in the number of prisoners dying in custody In this book Khechumyan questions whether respect for human dignity would justify releasing older and seriously ill prisoners He also examines the normative justifications which could limit the administration of the imprisonment of the elderly and seriously ill Khechumyan argues that factors such as a prisoner s age and health could alter the balance between the legitimate goals of punishment rendering the continued imprisonment grossly disproportionate To address these issues Articles 3 and 5 of the European Convention of Human Rights are extensively examined This book is a valuable resource for academics researchers and policy makers working in the fields of Criminal Justice Human Rights Law and Gerontology

Golden Aging Maurizio Bussolo, Johannes Koettl, Emily Sinnott, 2015-06-23 Societies across Europe and Central Asia are aging but people are not necessarily living

longer This demographic trend caused by a decrease in fertility rather than improved longevity presents both challenges and opportunities for governments the private sector and individuals alike Some of the challenges are well known Output per capita becomes smaller if it is shared with an increasingly larger group of dependent older people At a certain point there may not be sufficient resources to maintain the living standards of this older group especially if rising expenditures on health care long term care and pensions must be financed through the contributions and taxes paid by ever smaller younger age groups Working adults also contribute the most to the pool of savings As the size of this group shrinks savings will decline But these challenges can be transformed into opportunities Consider these examples As longevity increases workers tend to stay in the workforce longer and with the right incentives they will increase their savings Many current workers and perhaps even more in the future will thus not necessarily become dependent once they turn 65 And with slower population growth and smaller young age groups societies will have an opportunity to improve the quality of education and maintain productivity Firms in some countries are already adapting by capitalizing on skills that appreciate with age Cardiovascular diseases account for more than half the difference in life expectancy above age 50 between the region and Western Europe for men and 75 percent of the corresponding difference for women Healthier behavior and health systems focused on preventive care could with no cost increase dramatically reduce this risk These opportunities are not to be missed As populations age public discourse ranges from concerns about economic decline and fiscal sustainability of pensions and health systems to optimism about opportunities for healthier and more productive aging The main contribution of Golden Aging is perhaps to show that demography and its consequences are not fixed Much will depend on how people firms and societies adapt and how policy makers and institutions facilitate their behavioral adjustments The future for Europe and Central Asia does not have to be gray it can be a golden era of healthy active and prosperous aging
