Social Class And Health Status:

Social Class and Health Status D. L. Crombie, 1984 This is not a summary of the black report The problems have been examined from the more localized and parochial view of working general practitioners Differences in health status between groups of individuals are just differences They become inequalities only if the differences result from disadvantage Seven statements can be made which transform the rather pessimistic assessment contained in the black report Notwithstanding the persistent relative disparity between the health status of social class 5 compared with social class 1 Improved health for all is one thing Equal opportunities for health for all is another To expect that equal health status can be achieved by all is unrealistic

Senault,H. Viefhues,2012-12-06 Since the historieal conference held in Alma Ata in 1978 it has been possible to observe a reorientation of the medical profession More and more issues of health enter the stage and curative medicine is not just loosing ground but some interest How effective is health education and Whose task is primary pre vention are questions which stimulate great concern and public debate It seems also to be the first time since the last decades of the 19th century that the social dimension of health receives adequate consideration Thus the reeent publication of the so called Black Report on Inequalities in Health Penguin 1982 led to a heated discussion in Great Britain certainly of relevance to many other countries The 6 years since 1978 are much too short a time to proceed far towards Health for All as the slogan of the World Health Organization puts it but the concepts are spelled out vaguely but convincing to many of us It is the right time to discuss first experiences and to move from philosophy to empiri eal work This work as it relates to the process evolving since Alma Ata is characterized by participation cooperation and prevention Participation because disease concerns only the individual patient his or her family and immediate social environment while health concerns everyone and should involve everyone It is a task of the whole of society rather than the domaine of a single profession or party Readings in
