The Complete Social Scientist A Kurt Lewin Reader:

The Complete Social Scientist Kurt Lewin, 2009 This anthology continues the effort to make Kurt Lewin's work easily accessible again by bringing together 15 significant articles that were written over a span of 30 yrs. These articles were selected because they still stand as relevant contributions to the world's culture and they reflect the extraordinary range over which Lewin's intellectual activity remains relevant. The first several selections present Lewin as a philosopher of science. The next section includes original reports by Lewin of programs of research that he and his students or colleagues carried out on key theoretical problems in motivational, developmental, and social psychology. Following is a selection of articles that Lewin wrote as an applied psychologist. Last are sections in which Lewin responded to requests for advice from policymakers and community leaders. The Complete Social Scientist Kurt Lewin, Martin Gold, 1999-01 This wide-ranging collection acquaints contemporary scholars with Lewin's fundamental work. The articles offer evidence of the workings of an innovative mind engaged in the philosophy of science in social, personality, motivation, and developmental psychology in applying psychology to the amelioration of social problems and in formulating social policy. Each article in this anthology remains a relevant contribution to the world's culture. Together they reflect the extraordinary range of Lewin's intellectual activity as a philosopher of science, research psychologist, applied psychologist, and sage.

More Examples, Less Theory Michael Billig, 2019-10-03 By examining key psychologists from the past, this book shows why examples are so important and theory is overvalued.

Social Groups in Action and Interaction Charles Stangor, 2004 The goal of Social Groups in Action and Interaction is to review and analyze the human group as it operates to create both social good and potentially social harm. The book provides relatively equal emphasis on topics traditionally considered from an intra-group perspective (for instance, conformity, minority influence, group decision making, leadership, and task performance) as well as topics derived from an inter-group perspective (e.g., social categorization, social identity, intergroup conflict, stereotyping, prejudice, and discrimination). In addition, topics that are not unique to either of these two approaches and yet which are important aspects of group relations, such as culture, crowd behavior, social representations, and negotiation, are also covered.

instrumental experimentalism However this institutional reduction of sanctioned methods has not been fully embraced by all social scientists nor even by all experimental psychologists The social sciences are rife with examples of practicing empirical scientists disaffected with the reductionism and atomism of traditional experimentalism The empirical theory and practice of four of these disaffected social scientists Lev Vygotsky James Baldwin James Gibson and Kurt Lewin is explored in this volume Each of the scientists considered here argued for a rigorously empirical method while still maintaining a clear anti reductionist stance They justified their disaffection with the dominant psychological paradigms of their respective eras in terms of a fidelity to their phenomena of study a fidelity they believed would be compromised by radical reductionism and ontological atomism The authors in this collection explore the theory and practice of these eminent researchers and from it find inspiration for contemporary social science The primary argument running through these analyses is that the social sciences should take seriously the notion of holistic empirical investigation This means among other things re establishing the indissoluble ties between theory method and procedure and resisting the manualization of research procedures It also means developing theories of relations and not simply of elemental properties Such theories would concern particular units fields or systems of relations and not be reduced to or interpreted in the terms of other systems Finally a holistic social science requires integration of the active agent into theory method and procedure an integration that points toward both participatory and emancipatory methods
