The Condition of Teaching. A State-by-State Analysis, 1990. A Technical Report Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Princeton, NJ.,1990 Section 1 of this report presents the results of a national survey of public school teachers in 1990 which solicited their views and opinions on the current condition of teaching Over 20 000 teachers responded to the survey which contained questions ranging from their assessment of overall morale to the availability of instructional materials from their assessment of a decade of school reform to parents support of teachers The questionnaire covered the following topics 1 attitudes and values of teachers today 2 characteristics of today s students 3 learning and instruction 4 working conditions school climate 5 working conditions buildings and materials 6 teacher involvement in decision making 7 the status of the profession and 8 school improvement Section 2 of the report presents state by state comparisons of the survey results Comparisons are based on responses to the topics covered by the questionnaire Results are displayed on tables JD

An Approach to Individual Analysis in Educational and Vocational Guidance David Segel,1958 State Indicators in Education 1997 Richard P. Phelps,1997 Resources in Education ,2000 Substantial Classrooms Jill VIALET,Amanda von Moos,2021-04-13 Transform Your School s Substitute Teaching Experience Just like everything else substitute teaching is about to undergo a big change In Substantial Classrooms Redesigning the Substitute Teaching Experience authors Jill VIALET and Amanda von Moos usher in a new era of innovation in substitute teaching Threaded with concrete and actionable ways to improve the experience of substitute teaching for administrators students and the teachers themselves Substantial Classrooms is a leading voice for innovation and renewal in substitute teaching Instead of viewing substitute teachers as a placeholder in an educator s absence this book encourages readers to view substitute teachers as vital resources that diversify the typical classroom learning experience While other books look only at making a bad situation bearable this book re examines substitute teaching with an eye towards reinventing it as a unique and valuable part of students educational experience Key themes of Substantial Classrooms include How substitute teaching works today Applying human centered design to create change in legacy systems like substitute teaching Concrete and inspiring examples of different models for substitute teaching for example reimagining it as paid fieldwork for aspiring teachers In addition to these key themes every chapter includes stories and techniques from dynamic and innovative educational practitioners This must have guide to substitute teaching can improve schools everywhere and revolutionize the way educators school and district leaders colleges and community partners view the experience of substitute teaching as a lever to positively impact schools

Who Will Teach? Richard Murnane,Judith D Singer,James Kemple,Randall Olsen,2009-07-01 Will America find enough good teachers to staff its public schools How can we ensure that all our children will be taught by skilled professionals The policies that determine who teaches today are a confusing and often conflicting array that includes tougher licensing requirements higher salaries mandatory master s degrees merit pay and alternative routes to certification Who Will Teach examines these policies and separates those that work from those that backfire The authors present an intriguing portrait of America's teachers and reveal who they are who they have been and who they will be Using innovative statistical methods to track the professional lives of more than 50 000 college graduates the book describes in many cases for the first time just how prospective current and former teachers respond to the incentives and disincentives they face The authors a group of noted educators economists and statisticians find cause for serious concern Few academically talented college graduates even try teaching and many of those who do leave quickly never to return Current licensing requirements stifle innovation in training and dissuade many potentially talented teachers at the outset But Who Will Teach shows that we can reverse these trends if we get the incentives right Although better salaries are essential especially for new teachers money is not enough Potential teachers should be offered alternative paths into the classroom School districts should improve their recruiting strategies Licensing criteria should assess teaching skills not just academic achievement and number of courses completed The authors offer a promising strategy based on high standards and substantial rewards

The Cost-Effectiveness of 22 Approaches for Raising Student Achievement Stuart S. Yeh, 2011-03-01 As a consequence of the federal No Child Left Behind NCLB law there is tremendous pressure on school principals teachers school superintendents district staff state departments of education and governors to maximize the increase in student achievement that is obtained with every dollar of expenditure Currently teachers are forced to rely on extremely inefficient approaches that take enormous amounts of time both during the school day and throughout the K 12 learning years This is experienced in terms of the reduced time that is available to teach subjects other than math and reading as schools resort to double periods of math double periods of reading and enormous amounts of remedial instruction that directly reduce the time available for other subjects including science art and music In contrast this book suggests that student achievement may be increased in a way that is not only cost effective in dollar terms but efficient in the sense that it does not rely on unusual investments in the time required to obtain results The book draws upon a wealth of cost effectiveness data to dispel common notions about what works in addressing the achievement gap increased expenditure per pupil charter schools voucher programs increased educational accountability class size reduction comprehensive school reform increased teacher salaries more selective teacher recruitment the use of value added methods to measure and reward teacher performance the use of National Board teacher certification to identify high performing teachers and a host of other approaches

Developmentally Appropriate Curriculum Marjorie J. Kostelnik,Anne Keil Soderman,Alice Phipps Whiren,2004 This book brings together the best information available on developing an integrated holistic approach to curriculum and instruction for children age three to eight in such formal group settings as childcare pre school and the early elementary grades Concentrating as much on the how of curriculum development as on the what and why the authors present numerous examples and practical research based guidelines organized by developmental domain for translating theory into best practice that accommodates age appropriateness individual differences and social and cultural diversity For childcare pre school and early elementary grades instructors Closing the Achievement Gap from an International Perspective Julia V. Clark,2013-10-24 In a changing world that demands new skills a vital concern of public education is the gap in academic performance between low and high achieving students There is no excuse for the achievement gaps that persist among poor and minority students in schools today All students can succeed at high levels regardless of race ethnicity and economic background Several countries have successfully confronted inequities in achievement demonstrating that any school can close achievement gaps regardless of the community they serve and that all students can achieve at high levels when they are provided with the right opportunities This book is about understanding what factors selected countries have applied to promote progress and what factors contribute to progress in the closing of achievement gaps It is about creating opportunities for all students Closing the Achievement Gap from an International Perspective Transforming STEM for Effective Education is written in response to rising concern for the improvement of quality education especially in mathematics and science provided to all students The contributors take a systematic view of the subject beginning with a cross national analysis of teacher qualifications and the achievement gap that spans 50 countries The content of the book is organized in sections describing education around the globe North and South America Europe Asia Africa and Australia Individual chapters offer close up analysis of efforts to close achievement gaps in the U S and Canada Mexico England Turkey China South Africa and Australia among many others The contributors provide information on the achievement gap in mathematics and science review current research and present strategies for fostering improvement and raising performance with a focus on school related variables that adversely affect educational outcomes among poor and minority students The authors of the various chapters looked at how students data correlated with classroom practices teacher instruction and academic programming as part of their efforts to measure student growth Qualitative and quantitative data are provided to provide evidence not only of the problem but also for the solution The book concludes with a chapter on promoting equality and equity to shrink the achievement gap worldwide School Teachers Jianping Shen,2009 Foreword Acknowledgments 1 Teacher Qualification and Certification 2 Inequitable Distribution of Public School Teachers 3 Alternative Certification 4 Teacher Attrition 5 Teacher Preparation Teachers Managing Stress & Preventing Burnout Yvonne Gold,Robert A. Roth,2013-03-01 First published in 1993 The purpose of this book is to help those who help others Research has consistently demonstrated that those in the professions particularly helping professions have significantly higher levels of stress and burnout Studies have shown that the profession with the greatest vulnerability to these illnesses is teaching Alternative Teacher Certification C.
