The Death Of King Philip

George Burton Adams

The Death Of King Philip:

The Death of King Philip Romulus Linney, 1984-10 THE STORY Set in colonial America the play tells the story of Mary Rowlandson who is abducted with her baby son during an Indian uprising that left a dozen New England settlements in ruins At first we meet Mary as a woman of sixty recalling the momentous event of her youth then Mary at thirty appears and acts out the events themselves her capture by the Indian leader King Philip and the retribution exacted by her fanatical minister husband Joseph Rowlandson and the other settlers In a series of deftly written compelling scenes the irony of the situation in which the protagonists find themselves is made clear The noble dignified Indian leader is forced into savage acts of vengeance against his will while the God fearing Puritans despite the teachings of their church counter with equally terrible acts In the end King Philip accepting the inevitable lays down his arms and surrenders to his fate yet as the play so eloquently confirms the end result is not a matter of victory but rather of the sowing of the seeds of white racism which will bear bitter fruit in succeeding generations

Grief and Genre in American Literature, 1790-1870 Desirée Henderson, 2016-04-15 Focusing on the role of genre in the formation of dominant conceptions of death and dying Desirée Henderson examines literary texts and social spaces devoted to death and mourning in eighteenth and nineteenth century America Henderson shows how William Hill Brown Susanna Rowson and Hannah Webster borrowed from and challenged funeral sermon conventions in their novelistic portrayals of the deaths of fallen women contrasts the eulogies for George Washington with William Apess's Eulogy for King Philip to expose conflicts between national ideology and indigenous history examines Frederick Douglass's use of the slave cemetery to represent the costs of slavery for African American families suggests that the ideas about democracy materialized in Civil War cemeteries and monuments influenced Walt Whitman's war elegies and offers new contexts for analyzing Elizabeth Stuart Phelps's The Gates Ajar and Emily Dickinson's poetry as works that explore the consequences of female writers claiming authority over the mourning process Informed by extensive archival research Henderson's study eloquently speaks to the ways in which authors adopted revised or rejected the conventions of memorial literature choices that disclose their location within decisive debates about appropriate gender roles and sexual practices national identity and citizenship the consequences of slavery the nature of democratic representation and structures of authorship and literary authority

Death and Dying in Colonial Spanish America Martina Will de Chaparro, Miruna Achim, 2011-12-01 When the Spanish colonized the Americas they brought many cultural beliefs and practices with them not the least of which involved death and dying The essays in this volume explore the resulting intersections of cultures through recent scholarship related to death and dying in colonial Spanish America between the sixteenth and eighteenth centuries The authors address such important questions as What were the relationships between the worlds of the living and the dead How were these relationships sustained not just through religious dogma and rituals but also through everyday practices How was unnatural death defined within different population strata How did demographic and cultural changes affect mourning The variety of sources uncovered in the authors original archival research suggests the wide diversity of topics and approaches they employ Nahua annals Spanish chronicles Inquisition case records documents on land disputes sermons images and death registers Geographically the range of research focuses on the viceroyalties of New Spain Peru and New Granada The resulting records both documentary and archaeological offer us a variety of vantage points from which to view each of these cultural groups as they came into contact with others Much less tied to modern national boundaries or old imperial ones the many facets of the new historical research exploring the topic of death demonstrate that no attitudes or practices can be considered either Western or universal
