Excerpt from The History of England From the Accession of James II Vol 5 I have thought it right to publish that portion of the continuation of the History of England which was fairly transcribed and revised by Lord Macaulay It is given to the world precisely as it was left no connecting link has been added no reference verified no authority sought for or examined It would indeed have been possible with the help I might have obtained from his friends to have supplied much that is wanting but I preferred and I believe the public will prefer that the last thoughts of the great mind passed away from among us should be preserved sacred from any touch but his own Beside the revised manuscript a few pages containing the first rough sketch of the last two months of William's reign are all that is left From this I have with some difficulty deciphered the account of the death of William No attempt has been made to join it on to the preceding part or to supply the corrections which would have been given by the improving hand of the author But imperfect as it must be I believe it will be received with pleasure and interest as a fit conclusion to the life of his great hero About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
