The History Of The Baltic Campaign Of 1854:

The History of the Baltic Campaign of 1854 Charles Napier, 1857 The History Of The Baltic Campaign Of 1854 G Butler Earp, 2025-05-22 The History Of The Baltic Campaign Of 1854 offers a detailed account of the naval operations in the Baltic Sea during the Crimean War Drawing upon documents and materials provided by Vice Admiral Sir Charles Napier G Butler Earp meticulously reconstructs the events strategies and challenges of the campaign This historical work provides insights into the naval tactics political considerations and the experiences of those involved in this significant 19th century conflict Earp TM s narrative sheds light on the strategic importance of the Baltic Sea and the role of the British Royal Navy in attempting to blockade Russian ports and disrupt their naval power It examines the leadership of Sir Charles Napier the controversies surrounding the campaign and the broader context of the Crimean War This book serves as a valuable resource for naval history enthusiasts scholars of the Crimean War and anyone interested in 19th century military history This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant History of the Baltic Campaign of 1854, from Documents And Other Materials Furnished by Vice-admiral Sir C. Napier Butler G. Earp, G. Earp Butler, 2006-04 The 1854 war between Russia and Britain with its French and Turkish allies is known as the Crimean War from the location of its chief campaign But it is often forgotten that there was fighting in the northern Baltic Sea between British and Russian Naval forces This book is a full account of that sideshow based on the papers of the Senior British Naval officer Vice Admiral Sir C Napier not to be confused with his more famous military namesake Gen Sir Charles Napier There is a good reason for the oblivion that has befallen the Baltic campaign it was a total and unmitigated failure apart from the capture of some unfortunate Finns who subsequently died of fever in Lewes jail The purpose of this book is to exonerate Admiral Napier commander of the Baltic expedition from blame for the failure which the author G Butler Earp lays squarely at the doors of the Lords of the Admiralty for sending Napier with an inadequate run down fleet and for refusing to give him the necessary means mortars and gunboats to reduce the Russian ports and forts which he was expected to silence Earp forcefully defends Napier from charges of incompetence and near cowardice and equally forcefully attacks the Admiralty for cheeseparing and injustice It is a story of military versus political needs which has echoes to this day The History of the Baltic Campaign of 1854.
