The Hole Truth Cartoons From Sowetan Mail Guardian And Cape Argus:

The Hole Truth Zapiro, 1997 Keeping a Sharp Eye Peter Vale, 2012-09

International relations are what a government does when nobody's looking. While this may well once have been true, the conduct of international relations in South Africa and elsewhere has come under increasing scrutiny by the public. This is partially the result of specialist expertise around the formal study of international relations and the making of foreign policy enhanced by the development of International Relations as a separate academic field. Like the growth of institutes of international affairs or the Council on Foreign Relations in the case of America, the study of international relations commenced at the end of the First World War 1914-18 with the establishment at the University of Wales Aberystwyth of the first academic chair in International Relations. It was called for Woodrow Wilson, America's twenty-eighth president, and funded by Welsh businessman and pacifist David Davis. In South Africa, the study of international relations commenced with the establishment of the South African Institute of International Affairs SAIIA which met for the first time in the Senate Chamber of the University of Cape Town on 12 May 1934. Until then, International Relations had been taught in various guises within History, Law, Economics, and Politics courses, but it lacked a firm institutional base. In South Africa, International Relations was first taught as a separate academic discipline at the University of the Witwatersrand in 1963, although a professorship called for Jan Smuts was first filled in 1961. Long before this institutional setting, however, a more subversive and certainly more spicy variety of international relations understanding and critique was at work: this was of course the sharp eye on foreign policy and international relations drawn in jest and sometimes in anger by cartoonists. Their interest in international relations predates the emergence of the powerful critical perspectives that have changed and almost redirected the field since the ending of the Cold War. This book is about how these other experts have looked at and commented on South Africa's relations with the world over the past century. It examines their interpretations of unfolding events and considers how these commentators and their work interacted with the more formal understandings of foreign policy and international relations that came to pass long after cartoons first appeared. A century of South Africa's engagement with the world is understandably a long and complex story. Cartoons on the country were done years before the 1910 Act of Union, as some well-known cartoons of the Anglo-Boer War suggest. However, by confining my choices to a hundred years of the South African state, I have chosen firm bookends for the collection. The choice of cartoons itself requires further clarification. There is a rather worrying recent notion in South Africa that nothing that happened in the country before the historic election of 1994 matters. In April 2009, at a conference, I heard an academic colleague say that what happened in the 1930s was illegitimate and of no real relevance to the present. This lack of interest in history is both short-sighted and intellectually lazy. South Africa's international relations today are determined as much by the cartoons drawn by Boonzaier in 1910 as they are by the cartoons drawn by Zapiro in 2010. I choose these two names not only because they conveniently cover almost the full range of the alphabet, but because they run from the founding of the South African state in 1910 to the present Their names signal something else too I have only chosen drawings by cartoonists who worked in South Africa As will be clear many cartoonists were not South African born but brought the cartoonist s trade with them to this country As such they brought interpretations and understandings of the world that helped to shape South Africa s perspectives on international relations Most of the artists in this boo Is There a Spin Doctor in the House? Zapiro,2005 A collection of Zapiro cartoons from the Mail Guardian Sunday Times and Independent Newspapers Protest! Liz McQuiston,2019 The best examples of the posters prints and other graphics that have been used for political protest throughout history and right to the present The Mandela Files Zapiro,2009 Political cartoonist Jonathan Shapiro s personal tribute to the great man of our time Dr. Do-Little and the African Potato Zapiro,2003 Offers a collection of Zapiro cartoons from the Mail Guardian Sunday Times and Independent newspapers The Hole Truth Jonathan Shapiro,1998-12-28 Hard on the heels of the bestseller Zapiro The Madiba Years comes Zapiro s second collection of brilliant cartoons As South Africans grapple with the present the future and the past Zapiro s pen constantly provokes hilarity and debate around dinner tables and in the corridors of power The Apartheid dinosaurs were easy targets These days the political landscape is more nuanced To go for a belly laugh or to go for the jugular that is the question says Zapiro a k a Jonathan Shapiro whose work appears regularly in the Mail and Guardian Sowetan and Cape Argus and is reprinted widely in other publications He has had solo exhibitions in Johannesburg Cape Town and New York Zapiro ventures where comrades fear to tread Pieter Dirk Uys ranging across the entire South African spectrum with a pen dipped lightly in acid Cape Argus We should be grateful that the South African democracy has a watchdog of his calibre Style Another wonderfully witty treasure Desmond Tutu Zapiro Zapiro,2004 A collection of Zapiro cartoons from the Mail Guardian Sunday Times and Independent Newspapers Bushwhacked Zapiro,2002 This is the seventh annual collection of Zapiro satirical political cartoons from the Mail and Guardian Sunday Times and Sowetan Take Two Veg and Call Me in the Morning Zapiro,2007 A collection of recent cartoons these scathing and hilarious depictions document 2007 as an eventful year of political folly in South Africa With a special eye for the ridiculous this commentary provides opportunity to laugh at the often bizarre antics of political figures and the sharp unique wit makes for both an entertaining and intellectually stimulating read
