The Death Of The Third Nature:

The Death of the Third Nature Robert J. Pruitt, Voice of Salvation (Radio broadcast), 1975-01-01 The Mystery of Three Natures in the Son of God; the Mystery of the Two Natures in the One Mediator; and the Necessity of These Natures, Each in Their Order ... By ... H. G. H. G., 1720 The Role of Nature in Yezidism Rezan Shivan Aysif, 2021

Yezidis are a religious minority living in Kurdistan as the native land. They also live in Transcaucasia and in other countries as diaspora communities such as Russia and Western Europe and particularly in Germany. Their shared language is Kurmanji Kurdish dialect. Yezidism is a cultural and religious system based on ancient religious traditions and it has roots in some ancient Iranian religions, Mesopotamian cultures and Sufism. Generally, it is regarded as a way to understand life, not an acquired dogma. In addition, each of monotheism, gnosticism, orthopraxy and the holiness of elements of nature play a central role in its traditions. What is more, its religious beliefs and practices have been preserved through oral traditions which can be considered as a religious literature that has its own forms and categories such as Qewl Beyt and Qeside etc. Lalish, which is located in Kurdistan, is the Yezidis' holiest place in the world. This book contains a detailed study of describing and analyzing the considerable role that the elements of nature, notably the four elements: fire, water, earth, and air/wind, play in Yezidism in its religious beliefs and practices and on the basis of the religious poetic texts and living religious traditions. The fieldwork of the study was carried out in Yezidi areas in the Kurdistan region of Iraq, which is the centre of their religion.

Mādhyamika and Yogācāra Gadjin M. Nagao, 1991-01-08. Nagao invariably focuses on the core of Mahāyāna Buddhism: the path of the Bodhisattva, the doctrine of nyat and the system of Trisvabhava are explained. Important technical terms used in the Mahāyāna textual tradition whose exact understanding is imperative for the study of Mahāyāna Buddhism are skillfully presented, making the book indispensable to scholars of Buddhist studies. Making the Rural Urban Sebastián Felipe Villamizar-Santamaría, 2024-05-08. This book takes the small rural town of La Calera in the outskirts of the Colombian capital of Bogotá as a case study to analyze how residents from different social classes, wealthier ex-urban newcomers arriving to traditionally peasant and rural areas, interact to decide how nature will be used in the face of further urban expansion. Contrary to the conflicts in other gentrification cases, including those of green gentrification, this book shows how newcomers and longtimers in La Calera use environmental concerns to bridge social class rifts and push the state to provide water, public space and decision-making power. Residents see abundant ecological resources like water and land around them but they do not have access to aqueducts, green public space or power over planning decisions affecting the distribution of these resources. As a response and to challenge the state more effectively, newcomers and longtimers create inter-class alliances through what the author calls 'third nature', the way residents try to both protect and keep using existing ecological goods. To do so, despite high levels of class inequality, residents had a similar goal of protecting ecological resources around them by intervening in the physical and political landscapes against a state that induces scarcity, selectively enforcing environmental policies to the detriment of Calerunos As cities all around the Global South continue to grow urban expansion posits a threat to the environment by transforming agricultural and protected areas into denser residential or touristic spaces Moreover as natural resources become scarcer in the face of climate change inequality might further existing environmental privileges and vulnerabilities By examining closely how Calerunos bridge class inequalities for environmental reasons this case highlights processes that inform other gentrifying rural spaces around the world

Writing for the Eyes in the Spanish Golden Age Frederick A. De Armas,2004

Although the very notion of writing for the eyes was not new to the Spanish Golden Age its ubiquitous presence during this period calls for rethinking of the traditional separation between the visual and the verbal in studies of Iberian culture This collection of essays seeks to open up this complex interdisciplinary field of study by including essays on many aspects of visual writing in sixteenth and seventeenth century Spain Jacket

People and Places of Nature and Culture Rod Giblett,2014-05-27 Using the rich and vital Australian Aboriginal understanding of country as a model People and Places of Nature and Culture affirms the importance of a sustainable relationship between nature and culture While current thought includes the mistaken notion perpetuated by natural history ecology and political economy that humans have a mastery over the Earth this book demonstrates the problems inherent in this view In the current age of climate change this is an important appraisal of the relationship between nature and culture and a projection of what needs to change if we want to achieve environmental stability

Nature, Technology and the Sacred Bronislaw Szerszynski,2008-04-15 This provocative and timely book argues that contemporary ideas and practices concerning nature and technology remain closely bound up with religious ways of thinking and acting Using examples from North America Europe and elsewhere it reinterprets a range of secular phenomena in terms of their conditioning by a complex series of transformations of the sacred in Western history The contemporary practices of environmental politics technological risk behaviour alternative medicine vegetarianism and ethical consumption take on new significance as sites of struggle between different sacral orderings Nature Technology and the Sacred introduces a radically new direction for today s critical discourse concerning nature and technology one that reinstates it as a moment within the ongoing religious history of the West
