Teaching for Wisdom Michel Ferrari, Georges Potworowski, 2008-10-14 The chapters in this volume are all devoted to a single question Can wisdom be taught or at least fostered They span many different traditions and times which generates both problems and opportunities The most obvious problem is that of translation As Curnow points out in the opening chapter the word wisdom is used to translate a variety of terms from antiquity that have only a partial overlap with modern work It is interesting to consider that the Egyptian word seboyet translates as either wisdom or instruction The same is true of terms from Buddhism or Confucianism or even the Ancient Greek tradition acknowledged as a source of most current views of wisdom in the West all the terms drawn from other languages and traditions have only partially overlapping meaning With this in mind each chapter can be read independently of the others However we have also arranged them in an order that reflects common themes that emerge despite this diversity We have not arranged them by geographical region or historical time but rather by the sort of educational strategy they advocate to foster wisdom The first chapter by Curnow provides a basic overview of approaches to teaching for wisdom in the West This is already a very ambitious undertaking spanning ancient

Egypt and Mesopotamia to the renaissance and the dawn of the modern world where the term wisdom has fallen largely out of fashion until very recently

The Druze and their Faith in Tawhid Anis Obeid, 2006-07-06

As a small sect that emerged from Islam over a thousand years ago the Druze religion and society has long been cloaked in a tradition of secrecy Veiled from the outside world the religious tenets have been vulnerable to distortion misunderstanding and misrepresentation In this book Dr Anis Obeid a Druze layman provides a penetrating analysis of Druze scriptures and beliefs Tawhid Presenting a chronological narrative of the foundation and development of the faith he explains the historical conditions and religious rationale behind this closed religion The Druze faith is the product of Abrahamic monotheism as it coalesced with other philosophies belief systems and political structures of the West and the East and as Obeid maintains should be recognized for its core monotheism and not fundamentally different from Judaism Christianity or Islam He argues convincingly with examples and translations from the Druze scriptures only now accessible to a non initiate public that Tawhid is a progressive and dynamic spiritual process based on freedom of choice This rich exploration of their faith the author s appeal for a sincere cultural dialogue will resonate with a wide audience in the West and in the Middle East

A Brief History of the Relationship Between Confucianism, Daoism, and Buddhism Zhongjian Mou,2023-01-01 Chinese traditions of Confucianism Daoism and Buddhism have a profoundly philosophical dimension The three traditions are frequently referred to as three paths of moral teachings In this book Mou provides a clear account of the textual corpus that emerges to define each of these traditions and how this canonical axis was augmented by a continuing commentarial tradition as each generation reauthorized the written core for their own time and place In his careful exegesis Mou lays out the differences between the more religious reading of these traditions with their defining practices that punctuate the human journey through life and the more intellectual and philosophical treatment of the texts that has and continues to produce a first order culture of annotation that become integral to the traditions themselves At the center of the alternative religious experience reflected throughout the teachings of Confucianism Daoism and Buddhism is the project of personal cultivation as it comes to be expressed as robust growth in family and communal relations For Mou these three highly distinctive and yet complementary ways of thinking and living constitute a kind of moral ecology wherein each of them complements the others as they stand in service to a different dimension of the human need for an educated spirituality
