The Deliberative Practitioner Encouraging Participatory Planning Processes:

The Deliberative Practitioner John Forester, 1999 Citizen participation in such complex issues as the quality of the environment neighborhood housing urban design and economic development often brings with it suspicion of government anger between stakeholders and power plays by many as well as appeals to rational argument Deliberative planning practice in these contexts takes political vision and pragmatic skill Working from the accounts of practitioners in urban and rural settings North and South John Forester shows how skillful deliberative practices can facilitate practical and timely participatory planning processes In so doing he provides a window onto the wider world of democratic governance participation and practical decision making Integrating interpretation and theoretical insight with diverse accounts of practice Forester draws on political science law philosophy literature and planning to explore the challenges and possibilities of deliberative practice

Tackling Long-Term Global Energy Problems Daniel Spreng, Thomas Flüeler, David L. Goldblatt, Jürg Minsch, 2012-01-03 This book makes a case for a multidisciplinary and transdisciplinary approach to energy research one that brings more of the social sciences to bear Featuring eight studies from across the spectrum of the social sciences each applying multiple disciplines to one or more energy related problems the book demonstrates the strong analytical and policy making potential of such a broadened perspective Case studies include energy transitions of households in developing countries the curse of oil politics and visions for renewables economics and ethics in emissions trading and carbon capture and storage

Planning for Healthy Communities Joongsu Kim, 2025-09-16 This book investigates multidisciplinary approaches to addressing the health of disadvantaged communities through equitable community development systems CDSs The core concepts underlying the book are three dimensions of support infrastructure people human centering place place cultivating and ecosystem sustainable capitalization leveraging several theories community capital social justice from community development This book is based on the results of a recent grassroots citywide engagement driven initiative in Detroit and on best practice case studies in Chicago Indianapolis Cleveland Boston Philadelphia Minneapolis Richmond and Portland The initiative's significant outcomes include a consensus bolstered by those case studies on seven components deemed essential to an equitable system for community development This book proposes that the CDS can enhance community health if at least the following requirements are met 1 adoption of a community vitality framework as a citywide shared narrative 2 coordination across financial institutions to allocate funds equitably to underserved communities and 3 implementation of system governance with stronger attention to resident voices This book demonstrates that bottom up CDSs can and should be leveraged to enhance the health of underserved communities and investigates how best to address the three requirements to make the equitable system based approach work effectively in practice The audience of community development and community health actors will learn from Detroit and the case studies offering lessons for other cities facing similar issues how to leverage equitable CDSs to promote healthy communities

Learning Citizenship by Practicing

Democracy Elizabeth Pinnington, Daniel Schugurensky, 2009-12-14 For many years the fields of citizenship education and participatory democracy have often operated independently from each other During the last decade the Transformative Learning Centre of the University of Toronto has nurtured multiple spaces for an interdisciplinary dialogue among scholars practitioners and students from these two fields One of those spaces was the Second International Conference on Citizenship Learning and Participatory Democracy where close to 300 participants from all over the world shared ideas in more than 150 sessions including discussions round tables workshops and keynote addresses This volume brings together a selected collection from the many papers submitted to the conference Learning Citizenship by Practicing Democracy International Initiatives and Perspectives includes an introductory essay 18 chapters and a postscript and is organized in three sections I Learning democracy in educational institutions II Learning democracy in communities III Learning democracy in participatory budgeting The articles in this book represent a variety of perspectives as the authors come from different geographical and disciplinary locations but they all share a commitment to improvements in theory research and practice in the worldwide movement for deepening democracy and for an emancipatory citizenship education

Designing Cities with Children and Young People Kate Bishop, Linda Corkery, 2017-05-25 Designing Cities with Children and Young People focuses on promoting better outcomes in the built environment for children and young people in cities across the world This book presents the experience of practitioners and researchers who actively advocate for and participate with children and youth in planning and designing urban environments It aims to cultivate champions for children and young people among urban development professionals to ensure that their rights and needs are fully acknowledged and accommodated With international and interdisciplinary contributors this book sets out to build bridges and provide resources for policy makers social planners design practitioners and students The content moves from how we conceptualize children in the built environment what we have discovered through research how we frame the task and legislate for it and how we design for and with children Designing Cities with Children and Young People ultimately aims to bring about change to planning and design policies and practice for the benefit of children and young people in cities everywhere

Beyond the Biophysical Laura German, Joshua J. Ramisch, Ritu Verma, 2010-06-10 Beyond the Biophysical provides a broad overview of agriculture and natural resource management NRM scholarship and practice that lies beyond the biophysical emphasizing instead epistemological cultural and political foundations of NRM The volume is oriented toward professionals with expertise in agriculture and natural resource management scholarship and practice but who lack exposure to the conceptual and methodological underpinnings of critical theory the anthropology of development ecological anthropology and other relevant scholarship It therefore follows common standards of academic rigour but minimizes the use of jargon integrates detailed case studies with conceptual syntheses and attempts to move from critique to concrete recommendations for scholarship and practice The volume seeks to foster a more nuanced and responsible engagement with local communities and the natural
