Childhood in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance Albrecht Classen, 2005 Earlier theses on the history of childhood can now be laid to rest and a fundamental paradigm shift initiated as there is an overwhelming body of evidence to show that in medieval and early modern times too there were close emotional relations between parents and children The contributors to this volume demonstrate conclusively on the one hand how intensively parents concerned themselves with their children in the pre modern era and on the other which social political and religious conditions shaped these relationships These studies in emotional history demonstrate how easy it is for a subjective choice of sources coupled with faulty interpretations caused mainly by modern prejudices toward the Middle Ages in particular to lead to the view that in the past children were regarded as small adults The contributors demonstrate convincingly that intense feelings admittedly often different in nature shaped the relationship between adults and children

Reformation and Everyday Life Nina J. Koefoed, Bo Kristian Holm, Christopher B. Brown, Günter Frank, Barbara Mahlmann-Bauer, Tarald Rasmussen, Violet Soen, Zsombor Tóth, Günther Wassilowsky, Siegrid Westphal, 2023-11-13 The European reformations meant major changes in theology religion and everyday life Some changes were immediate and visible in a number of countries monasteries were dissolved new liturgies were introduced and married pastors were ordained others were more hidden Theologically as well as practically the position of the church in the society changed dramatically but differently according to confession and political differences This volume addresses the question of how the theological liturgical and organizational changes brought by the reformation within different confessional cultures throughout Europe influenced the everyday life of ordinary people within the church and within society The different contributions in the book ask how lived religion space and everyday life were formed in the aftermath of the reformation and how we can trace changes in material culture in emotions in social structures in culture which may be linked to the reformation and the development of confessional cultures

Subject Cataloging Division,1989 Defining the Holy Sarah Hamilton,2016-12-05 Holy sites both public churches monasteries shrines and more private domestic chapels oratories populated the landscape of medieval and early modern Europe providing contemporaries with access to the divine These sacred spaces thus defined religious experience and were fundamental to both the geography and social history of Europe over the course of 1 000 years But how were these sacred spaces both public and private defined How were they created used recognised and transformed And to what extent did these definitions change over the course of time and in particular as a result of the changes wrought in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries Taking a strongly interdisciplinary approach this volume tackles these questions from the point of view of archaeology architectural and art history liturgy and history to consider the fundamental interaction between the sacred and the profane Exploring the establishment of sacred space within both the public and domestic spheres as well as the role of the secular within the sacred sphere each chapter provides fascinating insights into how these concepts helped shape and were shaped by wider society By highlighting these issues on a European basis from the medieval period through the age of the reformations these essays demonstrate the significance of continuity as much as change in definitions of sacred space and thus identify long term trends which have hitherto been absent in more limited studies As such this volume provides essential reading for anyone with an interest in the ecclesiastical development of western Europe from the thirteenth to the eighteenth centuries Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress.
