Technical Advances in AIDS Research in the Human Nervous System J.A. Levy, E.O. Major, 2012-12-06

It is remarkable that each month the quantity of articles published on AIDS still that address numbers in the thousands. The basic clinical and sociological aspects of this epidemic have been vigorously investigated and equally as extensively reported in traditional as well as new journals. Therefore what can the reader of this volume expect to find that is different from the information already found in the literature? The authors of this text met in October 1993 to discuss not only AIDS and its effects on the nervous system but also to address the problem from the point of view of the diverse technologies that are used in understanding the disease. Just as the recognition of oncogenic viruses gave us insights into cellular genes that govern growth, the study of HIV-1 in the nervous system has opened new areas of investigation in the nervous system. Use of human fetal and glioma derived cell cultures, discovery of toxins in the nervous system, release and damage of cytokines in the brain, the neuropathic effects of HIV proteins, the investigation of new treatment for neuro AIDS and virus detection strategies to identify latent HIV-1 infection are described in this volume. Basic and clinical investigators from more than thirty laboratories around the world contributed to the ideas discussed at the meeting.

Technical Advances in AIDS Research in the Human Nervous System Receptors in the Human Nervous System F. A. O. Mendelsohn, George Paxinos, 2013-10-22

Receptors in the Human Nervous System is a synthesis of the results of receptor mapping by leaders in the field. In addition to a comprehensive discussion of the distribution and possible interactions of the receptors of different neuroactive substances, this book also contains an abundance of pictorial representations of receptor distributions. High quality photographs of one receptor are often juxtaposed with photographs of the distribution of a different receptor or receptor subtype for the consideration of possible interactions between different systems. The book surveys the distribution of receptor subtypes for the classical monoamine transmitters: acetylcholine, adrenaline, noradrenaline and serotonin as well as the distribution of receptors for the excitatory and inhibitory amino acids: glutamate, GABA and benzodiazepines as well as the opioid peptides, angiotensin and other neuropeptides. The distribution of multiple types of serotonin receptors is given in detail and the codistribution of receptors in the cortex is discussed. The book is directed toward researchers in the field of chemical neuroanatomy as well as pharmacologists, neurophysiologists and neuroscientists.
