Nationalism, Language, and Muslim Exceptionalism

Tristan James Mabry,2015-02-06 In an era of ethnopolitical conflict and constitutional change worldwide nationalist and Islamist movements are two of the most powerful forces in global politics However the respective roles played by nationalism and Islamism in Muslim separatist movements have until recently been poorly understood The conventional view foregrounds Muslim exceptionalism which suggests that allegiance to the nation of Islam trumps ethnic or national identity But as Tristan James Mabry shows language can be a far more reliable indicator of a Muslim community's commitment to nationalist or Islamist struggles Drawing on fieldwork in Iraq Pakistan India Indonesia and the Philippines Nationalism Language and Muslim Exceptionalism examines and compares the ethnopolitical identity of six Muslim separatist movements There are variations in secularism and ethnonationalism among the cases but the key factor is the presence or absence of a vernacular print culture a social cement that binds a literate population together as a national group Mabry shows that a strong print culture correlates with a strong ethnonational identity and a strong ethnonational identity correlates with a conspicuous absence of Islamism Thus Islamism functions less as an incitement more as an opportunistic pull with greater influence when citizens do not have a strong ethnonational bond An innovative perspective firmly grounded in empirical research

Nationalism Language and Muslim Exceptionalism has important implications for scholars and policymakers alike
