Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade,1983 The New Global Rulers Tim Büthe,Walter Mattli,2013-07-21 Global private regulations who wins who loses and why Over the past two decades governments have delegated extensive regulatory authority to international private sector organizations This internationalization and privatization of rule making has been motivated not only by the economic benefits of common rules for global markets but also by the realization that government regulators often lack the expertise and resources to deal with increasingly complex and urgent regulatory tasks The New Global Rulers examines who writes the rules in international private organizations as well as who wins who loses and why Tim B the and Walter Mattli examine three powerful global private regulators the International Accounting Standards Board which develops financial reporting rules used by corporations in more than a hundred countries and the International Organization for Standardization and the International Electrotechnical Commission which account for 85 percent of all international product standards B the and Mattli offer both a new framework for understanding global private regulation and detailed empirical analyses of such regulation based on multi country multi industry business surveys They find that global rule making by technical experts is highly political and that even though rule making has shifted to the international level domestic institutions remain crucial Influence in this form of global private governance is not a function of the economic power of states but of the ability of domestic standard setters to provide timely information and speak with a single voice B the and Mattli show how domestic institutions abilities differ particularly between the two main standardization players the United States and Europe Jobs and U.S. Machine Tools Exports United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on International Economic Policy and Trade,1992 Political Economy of U.S. - Taiwan Trade Robert E. Baldwin,Tain-Jy Chen,Douglas Nelson,2025-10-01 Two key features of the remarkable economic growth in the newly industrializing countries of East Asia over the last quarter of a century are the role of exports of manufactured goods as the engine of this growth and the importance of the United States as a market for these exports Political Economy of U S Taiwan Trade analyzes the nature of the political and economic interactions both domestic and international which evolved between Taiwan and the United States in a manner that has enabled this growth to occur In analyzing the various cooperative and conflicting trade policies pursued by the two countries over the last fifty years the authors utilize a broad political economy framework They first describe the nature and evolution of trade between Taiwan and the United States and discuss the major economic and political groups and institutions that shape trade policies in the two countries In doing so the role that trade has played both in Taiwan s development policies and in the international economic and political policies of the United States in the post World War II period is analyzed The various restrictions imposed by each country on the other s exports are examined and the efforts to reduce these trade barriers are then discussed in detail Particular attention is given to the series of bilateral negotiations in which the United States has used its dominant economic and political power to force Taiwan to open a number of its internal markets The book will be of interest to both economists and political scientists specializing in international economics and international political relations Area specialists focusing on the Far East will also find the book helpful Robert E Baldwin is Hilldale Professor of Economics University of Wisconsin Tain Jy Chen is Research Fellow Chung Hua Institution for Economic Research Douglas Nelson is Associate Professor of Economics Tulane University This title was formally part of the Studies in International Trade Policy Series now called Studies in International Economics Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports ,1985 Extending Most-favored-nation Status for China United States.
