The Messages of Tourist Art Bennetta Jules-Rosette, 2013-04-17 Tourist art may be a billion dollar business Nevertheless such art is despised What is worse the bad culture is seen as driving out the good Commercialization is assumed to destroy traditional arts and crafts replacing them with junk The process is seen as demeaning to artists in the traditional societies who are seduced into a type of whoredom unfeeling production of false beauty for money The arts remain problematic for the social sciences Sociology textbooks treat the arts as subordinate reflections of social forces norms or groups Anthropology textbooks conventionally isolate the arts in a separate chapter failing to integrate them with analyses of kinship economics politics language or biology Textbooks reflect the guiding theories which emphasize such factors as modes of production patterns of thought or biological and normative constraints but their authors have not adequately formulated the aesthetic dimension One may compare the theoretical status of the arts to that of religion After the contributions by Emile Durkheim and Max Weber the sociology of religion is well established but where is a Durkheim or Weber for the sociology of art What is true of the social sciences in general holds for understanding of modernization in the Third World These processes and those places are analyzed economically politically and socially but the aesthetic dimension is treated in isolation if at all and is poorly grasped in relation to the other forces
