Creating Material Worlds Louisa Campbell, Adrian

Maldonado,Elizabeth Pierce,Anthony Russell,2016-05-07 Despite a growing literature on identity theory in the last two decades much of its current use in archaeology is still driven toward locating and dating static categories such as Phoenician Christian or native Previous studies have highlighted the various problems and challenges presented by identity with the overall effect of deconstructing it to insignificance As the humanities and social sciences turn to material culture archaeology provides a unique perspective on the interaction between people and things over the long term This volume argues that identity is worth studying not despite its slippery nature but because of it Identity can be seen as an emergent property of living in a material world an ongoing process of becoming which archaeologists are particularly well suited to study The geographic and temporal scale of the papers included is purposefully broad to demonstrate the variety of ways in which archaeology is redefining identity Research areas span from the Great Lakes to the Mediterranean with case studies from the Mesolithic to the contemporary world by emerging voices in the field The volume contains a critical review of theories of identity by the editors as well as a response and afterward by A Bernard Knapp Misfit Children Markus

Bohlmann,2016-12-14 Misfits are often confused with outcasts Yet misfits rather find themselves in between that which fits and that which does not This volume is interested in this slipperiness of misfits and explores the blockages and the promises of such movements as well as the processes and conditions that produce misfits the means that enable them to undo their denomination as misfits and the practices that turn those who fit into misfits and vice versa This collection of essays on misfit children produces transmissible motions across and engages in scholarly conversations that unfold betwixt and between in order to make rigid concepts twist and twirl and ultimately fail to fit Sound Changes Daniel Fischlin,Eric

Porter,2021-05-17 Extends the field of improvisation studies in a more global transcultural direction Stretching Beyond the Horizon Jean Hillier,2017-03-02 In this innovative work Jean Hillier develops a new theory for students and researchers of spatial planning and governance which is grounded primarily in the work of Gilles Deleuze The theory recognizes the complex interrelation between place qualities and the multiple space time relational dynamics of spatial governance Using empirical examples from England and Australia Hillier identifies the power of networks and trajectories through which various actors territorialize space and explores the social and political responsibilities of spatial managers and decision makers She considers what spatial planning and urban management practices could look like if they were to be developed along Deleuzian lines and suggests alternative framings for spatial practice broad trajectories or visions of the longer term future and shorter term location specific detailed plans and projects with collaboratively determined tangible goals

Towards a Twenty-First-Century Feminist Politics of Music Sally Macarthur,2016-02-24 Towards a Twenty First Century Feminist Politics of Music opens up a new way of thinking about the absence of women s music It does not aim to find a solution in a liberal feminist sense but to discover new potentialities new possibilities for thought and action Sally Macarthur encourages us with the assistance of Deleuze and feminist Deleuzian work to begin the important work of imagining what else might be possible not in order to provide answers but to open up the as yet unknown The power of thought or what Deleuze calls the virtual opens up new possibilities Macarthur suggests that the future for women's new music is not tied to the predictable and known but to futures beyond the already known Previous research concludes that women's music is virtually absent from the concert hall and yet fails to find a way of changing this situation Macarthur finds that the flaw in the recommendations flowing from past research is that it envisages the future from the standpoint of the present and it relies on a set of pre-determined goals It thus replicates the present reality so reinforcing rather than changing the status quo Macarthur challenges this thinking and argues that this repetitive way of thinking is stuck in the present unable to move forward Macarthur situates her argument in the context of current dominant neoliberal thought and practice She argues that women have generally not thrived in the neoliberal model of the composer which envisages the composer as an individual autonomous creator and entrepreneur Successful female composers must work with this dominant modernist aesthetic and exploit the image of the neo-romantic entrepreneurial creator This book sets out in contrast to develop a new conception of subjectivity that sows the seeds of a twenty-first century feminist politics of music

Philosophical Perspectives on Play Malcolm MacLean, Wendy Russell, Emily Ryall, 2015-08-20 Philosophical Perspectives on Play builds on the disciplinary and paradigmatic bridges constructed between the study of philosophy and play in The Philosophy of Play Routledge 2013 to develop a richer understanding of the concept and nature of play and its relation to human life and value Made up of contributions from leading international thinkers and inviting readers to explore the presumptions often attached to play and playfulness the book considers ways that play in virtual and real worlds can inform understandings of each critiquing established norms and encouraging scepticism about the practice and experience of play Organised around four central themes play in the limits aesthetics metaphysics ontology and ethics the book extends and challenges notions of play by drawing on issues emerging in sport gaming literature space and art with specific attention paid to disruption and danger It is intended to provide scholars and practitioners working in the spheres of play education games sport and related subjects with a deeper understanding of philosophical thought and to open dialogue across these disciplines

Architecture in Abjection Zuzana Kovar, 2017-11-30 This book marks a turning point in architectural theory by using philosophy to examine the field anew Breaking from the traditional dualism within architecture which presents the body as subject and space as object it examines how such rigid boundaries can be softened Zuzana Kovar thus engages with complementary and complex ideas from architecture philosophy feminist theory and other subjects demonstrating how both bodies and bodily functions relate deeply to architecture Extending philosopher Julia Kristeva's notion of abjection the confrontation of one's own corporeality as something is excreted Kovar finds parallels in the concept of the scaffold Much like living bodies and their products can impact on the buildings that house them old skin cells create dust menstrual blood stains our breath heats and cools surfaces scaffolding is similarly ephemeral and yet not entirely separable from the architecture it supports Kovar shifts the conversation about abjection towards a more nuanced idea of architecture where living organisms building matter space decay and waste are all considered as part of a continual process drawing on the key informing works of thinkers like Gilles Deleuze and Felix Guattari to do this Including a number of experimental projects conducted in the spaces inhabited by the author herself to illuminate the theory at its core the book forms a distinguished and pioneering study designed for practitioners and scholars of architecture philosophy and visual culture alike

Transnational Chinese Cinema Brian Bergen-Aurand, Mary Mazzilli, Hee Wai-Siam, 2015-03-26 This collection of essays on transnational Chinese cinema explores the corporal psychological and affective aspects of experiencing bodies on screen engages with the material and discursive elements of embodiment and highlights the dynamics between the mind and body involved in bio cultural practices of cinematic production distribution exhibition and reception
