accept a hand out from the government or big business There are also people who will starve to death before they will accept charity It should be made very clear that every American I know believes in giving all the aid possible to people with real disability and even more than is available Many people have the mentality of believing that they are entitled to welfare from the big government if they decide they want it The question must be asked Is it fair to society and to the patient in particular to provide him with eating bread of idleness Cavorting on the Devil's Fork C.
