The Horizontal Society

Guerrero, Georgiann Davis

The Horizontal Society:

The Horizontal Society Lawrence Meir Friedman, 1999-01-01 This book argues that modern technology has radically and irretrievably altered our sense of identity and hence our social political and legal life In traditional societies relationships and identities were strongly vertical there was a clear line of authority from top to bottom and identity was fixed by one's birth or social position But in modern society identity and authority have become much more horizontal people feel freer to choose who they are and to form relationships on a plane of equality The author examines how modern life centers on human identity seen in terms of race gender ethnicity and religion and how this new way of defining oneself affects politics social structure and the law He claims that our horizontal society is the product of the mass media in particular television which break down the isolation of traditional life and allow individuals to connect with like minded others across barriers of space and time As horizontal groups blossom loyalties and allegiances to smaller groups fragment what seemed to be the unity of the larger nation In addition the media's ability to spread a global mass culture causes a breakdown of cultural isolation that leads to more immigration and heavy pressure on the laws and institutions of citizenship and immigration

The Horizontal Society José Faur, 2008 The Horizontal Society is an exposition of rabbinic thought as exemplified by Maimonides The thought streams of Greece Rome and Christendom serve as a contrast This work is in the Hebrew rhetorical tradition of melissa The main text in five sections The God of Israel The Books of Israel The Governance of Israel The Memory of Israel and The Folly of Israel focuses on these core matters It includes numerous references to orient the reader The mode is similar to the author's previous work such as Golden Doves with Silver Dots Semiotics and Textuality in Rabbinic Tradition interacting with the latest thought from today's academy This book illustrates the horizontal organization of the Jewish people Other social organization is based on hierarchy Two principles made this difference possible for Israel First the Hebrew Scriptures alone propose that every human being is created in the image of God This necessitates the absolute equality of every human being Second the Sinai covenant establishes the Law as the supreme authority Whereas in other societies might is the source of authority in Judaism authority is limited by the Law These principles were summarized by the last Prophet of Israel Has not one God created us Why do we deal treacherously profaning the covenant of our fathers Mal 2 10 There is a subdivided bibliography of forty pages including both Jewish and Western sources The scholarly apparatus includes indices of terms names and subjects There are also seventy appendices of interest to rabbinic readership

Modernism and the Culture of Market Society John Xiros Cooper,2004-09-02 Many critics argue that the modernist avant garde were always in opposition to the commercial values of market driven society For John Xiros Cooper the avant garde bears a more complex relation to capitalist culture than previously acknowledged He argues that in their personal relationships gender roles and sexual contacts the modernist avant garde epitomised the impact of capitalism on everyday life Cooper shows how the new social cultural and economic practices aimed to defend cultural values in a commercial age but in this task modernism became the subject of a profound historical irony Its own characterising techniques styles and experiments deployed to resist the new nihilism of the capitalist market eventually became the preferred cultural style of the very market culture which the first modernists opposed In this broad ranging 2004 study John Xiros Cooper explores this provocative theme across a wide range of Modernist authors including Joyce Eliot Stein and Barnes Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society of London Royal Society (London),1859 Proceedings of the Royal Society of London Royal Society (Great Britain),1900 Transactions of the Linnean Society of London Linnean Society of London,1900
