The Hot House Italian New Wave Design:

The Hot House Andrea Branzi, 1984 The Hot House is in part a manifesto and in part a noncanonical history of the most progressive and heretical experiments in the applied arts and design. Covering two centuries of avantgarde designs but concentrating on the 1950s to the present the book looks at architecture and urban design as well as graphic interior exhibit industrial and fashion design. It discusses the role that such magazines as Casabella, Domus and Modo have played on this lively front and provides an insider's view of such figures and groups as Alessandro Mendini, Gaetano Pesce, Alchimia, Global Tools, Michele De Lucchi, Ettore Sottsass and the design world's hot new movement Memphis. It also elucidates such concepts as banal design, soft design, radical architecture and color cultures and relates these and other design developments to social and political issues. Protagonist of many of these experiments, Andrea Branzi calls for a theory and practice in which the old methods and instruments, pencil, square and compass, are rendered obsolete and the formal commandments of modernism, comfort, function and style, are banished. If Branzi's vision of the new domestic landscape bears any relation to the future home, the places we live and objects around us are on the verge of being radically transformed. The Hot House dramatically expands the theoretical and operative limits of design. While precedents to Il Nuovo Design, The New Design can be found in everything from Art Deco to De Stijl to Pop Art to California funk, Italy is the center of this new phenomenon and the hot house of its most intense activity. Beginning in the 1960s there emerged a number of design studios that went by names like Archizoom, 9999, Superstudio and UFO; their products redefined the basic architecture of furniture and clothing and polemicized an entire discipline. Andrea Branzi, architect and designer, has been a leading force in Italian design since the 1960s. As the founder of Archizoom Associates and member of the experimental design collective Global Tools, he is responsible for many of the experiments described in this book. He lives and works in Milan where he is Educational Director of Domus Academy and Editorial Director of Modo.

Nature in the History of Design Kjetil Fallan, 2019-03-26 The Culture of Nature in the History of Design confronts the dilemma caused by design's pertinent yet precarious position in environmental discourse through interdisciplinary conversations about the design of nature and the nature of design. Demonstrating that the deep entanglements of design and nature have a deeper and broader history than contemporary discourse on sustainable design and ecological design might imply, this book presents case studies ranging from the eighteenth to the twenty-first century and from Singapore to Mexico. It gathers scholarship on a broad range of fields/practices from urban planning/landscape architecture and architecture to engineering design/industrial design/furniture design and graphic design. From adobe architecture to the atomic bomb, from the bonsai tree to Biosphere 2, from pesticides to photovoltaics, from rust to recycling, the culture of nature permeates the history of design. As an activity and a profession always operating in the borderlands between human and non-human environments, design has always been part of the environmental problem whilst also being an indispensable part of the solution. The book ventures into domains as diverse as design theory, research, pedagogy, politics, activism, organizations, exhibitions, and fiction, and trade literature to explore how design is constantly making and unmaking the environment and conversely how the environment is both making and unmaking design. This book will be of great interest to a range of scholarly fields from design education and design history to environmental policy and environmental history.
