Margaret Oliphant Oliphant, 1858 The Laird of Norlaw: A Scottish Story Margaret Oliphant Wilson Oliphant, 2020-09-28 The house of Norlaw stands upon the slope of a low hill under shelter of the three mystic Eildons and not very far from that little ancient town which in the language of the author of Waverley is called Kennaquhair A low peaceable fertile slope bearing trees to its top most height and corn on its shoulders with a little river running by its base which manages after many circuits to wind its way into Tweed The house which is built low upon the hill is two stories in front but owing to the unequal level only one behind The garden is all at the back where the ground is sheltered but in front the green natural surface of the hill descends softly to the water without any thing to break its verdure There are clumps of trees on each side straying as nature planted them but nothing adorns the sloping lawn which is not called a lawn nor used for any purposes of ornament by the household of Norlaw Close by at the right hand of this homely house stands an extraordinary foil to its serenity and peacefulness The old castle of Norlaw gaunt and bare and windowless not a towered and battlemented pile but a straight square savage mass of masonry with windows pierced high up in its walls in even rows like a prison and the gray stone work below as high under the first range of windows as the roof of the modern house rising up blank like a rock without the slightest break or opening To see this strange old ruin in the very heart of the peaceful country without a feature of nature to correspond with its sullen strength nor a circumstance to suggest the times and the danger which made that necessary is the strangest thing in the world all the more that the ground has no special capacities for defense and that the castle is not a picturesque baronial accumulation of turrets and battlements but a big austere fortified dwelling house which modern engineering could make an end of in half a day It showed however if it did nothing better that the Livingstones were knights and gentlemen in the day when the Border was an unquiet habitation and for this if for nothing else was held in no little honor by the yeoman Livingstone direct descendant of the Sir Rodericks and Sir Anthonys who farmed the remains of his paternal property and dwelt in the modern house of Norlaw The Laird of Norlaw Mrs. Oliphant (Margaret), 1858 The Laird of Norlaw; A Scottish Story Margaret Oliphant, 2018-05-23 Reproduction of the original The Laird of Norlaw A Scottish Story by Margaret Oliphant The Laird of Norlaw Mrs. Oliphant (Margaret), 1858 The Laird Of Norlaw, By The Author Of 'margaret Maitland' Margaret Oliphant Oliphant, 2019-03-27 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as
