Reading the Animal Text in the Landscape of the Damned Mitchell, Les, 2019-10-22 Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned looks at the diverse texts of our everyday world relating to nonhuman animals and examines the meanings we imbibe from them It describes ways in which we can explore such artefacts especially from the perspective of groups and individuals with little or no power This work understands the oppression of nonhuman animals as being part of a spectrum incorporating sexism racism xenophobia economic exploitation and other forms of oppression The enquiry includes physical landscapes the law women's rights history slavery language use economic coercion farming animal experimentation and much more Reading the animal text in the landscape of the damned is an academic work but is accessible theoretically based but robustly practical and it encourages the reader to take this enquiry further for both themselves and for others

Elements of Visual Design in the Landscape Simon Bell, 2013-03 Public concern about the landscape in particular its appearance is increasing all the time For those charged with managing developing or conserving a wide range of landscapes it is a major task to take visual aspects into account Elements of Visual Design in the Landscape presents a vocabulary of visual design structured in a logical and easy to follow sequence It is profusely illustrated using both abstract and real examples taken from a wide range of international locations together with cross referencing between related principles and case studies demonstrating how the principles can be applied in practice The visual aspects of design have often been treated as cosmetic and therefore not meriting attention or purely subjective and therefore open to personal preference Few attempts have been made to explain how we see the landscape in any rational and structured way and to demonstrate how visually creative design and management can be undertaken This book aims to fill that gap

Reading the Landscape Peter Watson, 2014-03-17 It is not only what we see but how we see that makes a difference In his sequel to Capturing the Light Peter Watson revisits the often delicate process of interpreting and capturing landscapes in photography His almost scientific approach challenges us to see like an artist and seize creative opportunities whilst comprehensive tools and techniques coverage allow us to put his theories into practice with impressive results

Drawing the Landscape Chip Sullivan, 2013-11-18 This elegant Fourth Edition of Chip Sullivan's classic Drawing the Landscape shows how to use drawing as a path towards understanding the natural and built environment It offers guidance for tapping into and exploring personal creative potential and helps readers master the essential principles tools and techniques required to prepare professional graphic representations in landscape architecture and architecture It illustrates how to create a wide range of graphic representations using step by step tutorials exercises and hundreds of samples

Melancholy and the Landscape Jacky Bowring, 2016-07-07 Written as an advocacy of melancholy's value as part of landscape experience this book situates the concept within landscape's aesthetic traditions and reveals how it is a critical part of ethics and empathy With a history that extends back to ancient times melancholy has hovered at the edges of the appreciation of landscape including the aesthetic exertions of the eighteenth century Implicated in the more formal categories of the Sublime and the Picturesque melancholy captures the subtle condition of beautiful sadness The book proposes a range of conditions which are conducive to melancholy and presents examples from each including The Void The Uncanny Silence Shadows and Darkness Aura Liminality Fragments Leavings Submersion Weathering and Patina We Bury the Landscape Kristine Ong Muslim,2012-04-15 The Routledge Handbook of Landscape Ecology Robert A. Strategic Environmental Assessment: Integrating Landscape and Urban Planning Fabio Cutaia,2016-07-20 This book explores the opportunities offered by Strategic Environmental Assessment in the context of guaranteeing the synchronized integration of landscape in all its aspects within urban plans thereby helping to overcome the constraints of rigidly framed sector focused laws and a purely aesthetic concept of landscape In pursuit of this goal various scholars have previously attempted to construct arrays of indicators relating to the different conceptions of landscape This book critically examines the most complete proposals of this nature systematizing and comparing them and finally offering some guidelines with respect to their codification within specific application protocols After opening chapters exploring the origins of the problem and analysing the European normative frame for Strategic Environmental Assessment two case studies are described and discussed A model is then presented for the evaluation of the effects of urban plans on landscape including in cultural and perceptual terms The author demonstrates that when suitably employed Strategic Environmental Assessment can indeed facilitate the integration of environmental economic and social sustainability into urban planning A Guide to Cultural Landscape Reports Robert R. Page,Cathy Gilbert,Susan Dolan,1998 The Changing Landscape of a Utopia

Shmuel Burmil, Ruth Enis, 2011 This book appears on the 100 year celebration of the kibbutz movement a century since the establishment of the first kibbutz Deganya Alef in 1910 The kibbutz started as a farming community and over the years has defined and developed its unique ideology of social and economic aspects of self rule equality mutual responsibility and common ownership of the means of production The kibbutz that some define as an utopian community has gradually developed into a community with diverse means of production including leading international industries The book describes the development of the unique system of zoning with landscape and gardens that strongly reflect the ideology This uniqueness was developed while rooted in the Western international tradition of landscape architecture with planners and designers educated mainly in central Europe The book describes the different periods and styles in the development of the kibbutz landscape as well as some of the main landscape issues and elements such as the dominant tree species and the circle It also describes in detail some of the key people involved in the development of the kibbutz landscape and gardens landscape gardeners landscape architects and kibbutz gardeners The dramatic political and economic changes that occurred in Israel have not bypassed the kibbutz for they caused changes in kibbutz ideology and the community's social and economic structures These changes and the changes that they have caused and are still causing in the kibbutz landscape are carefully detailed in the last chapter The dramatic changes in the kibbutz landscape have also led to a discussion of the need for landscape conservation as well and some examples are described

The Stylistics of Landscapes, the Landscapes of Stylistics John Douthwaite, Daniela Francesca Viridis, Elisabetta Zurru, 2017-11-15 In treating the topic of the landscapes of stylistics this book provides a series of chapters which deal not only with physical landscapes but also with social mental historical portraits of places people and society The chapters demonstrate that all texts project a worldview even when the content appears to be only a physical description of the external world The implication is that texts attempt to produce specific effects on the reader determined by the author's worldview Contents and effects namely mental and emotional states behaviours are thus inseparable Identifying those effects and how they are produced is an eminently cognitive operation The chapters analyse a variety of linguistic devices and cognitive mechanisms employed in producing the text and accounting for the effects achieved Though the majority of the chapters have a cognitive basis a wide range of methodologies are employed including ecostylistics offering cutting edge theoretical approaches teamed up with close reading A further crucial feature of this collection is the selection of non canonical texts ranging from lesser known texts in English to significant works in languages other than English all of which are characterised by important social themes thus emphasising the importance of critical appreciation as a means of self empowerment

The Long-Term Perspective of Human Impact on Landscape for Environmental Change and Sustainability Anna Maria Mercuri, Assunta

Florenzano, 2019-11-19 The research studies included in this Special Issue highlight the fundamental contribution of the knowledge of environmental history to conscious and efficient environment conservation and management The long term perspective of the dynamics that govern the human climate ecosystem is becoming one of the main focuses of interest in biological and earth system sciences Multidisciplinary bio geo archaeo investigations into the underlying processes of human impact on the landscape are crucial to envisage possible future scenarios of biosphere responses to global warming and biodiversity losses This Special Issue seeks to engage an interdisciplinary dialog on the dynamic interactions between nature and society focusing on long term environmental data as an essential tool for better informed landscape management decisions to achieve an equilibrium between conservation and sustainable resource exploitation Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture Simon Bell, Ingrid Herlin, Richard Stiles, 2011-02-20 What have cultural anthropologists historical geographers landscape ecologists and environmental artists got in common Along with eight other disciplines from domains as diverse as planning and design the arts and humanities as well as the social and natural sciences they are all fields of importance to the theory and practice of landscape architecture In the context of the EU funded LE NOTRE Project carried out under the auspices of ECLAS the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools international experts from a wide range of related fields were asked to reflect each from their own perspective on the interface between their discipline and landscape architecture The resulting insights presented in this book represent an important contribution to the development the discipline of landscape architecture as well as suggesting new ways in which future collaboration can help to create a greater interdisciplinary richness at a time when the awareness of the importance of the landscape is growing across a wide range of disciplines Exploring the Boundaries of Landscape Architecture is the first systematic attempt to explore the territory at the boundaries of landscape architecture It addresses academics professionals and students not just from landscape architecture but also from its neighbouring discipline all of whom will benefit from a better understanding their areas of shared interest and the chance to develop a common language with which to converse Eating the Landscape Enrique Salmón, 2012-11-15 Eating is not only a political act it is also a cultural act that reaffirms one's identity and worldview Enrique Salmón writes in Eating the Landscape Traversing a range of cultures including the Tohono O'odham of the Sonoran Desert and the Rarámuri of the Sierra Tarahumara the book is an illuminating journey through the southwest United States and northern Mexico Salmón weaves his historical and cultural knowledge as a renowned indigenous ethnobotanist with stories American Indian farmers have shared with him to illustrate how traditional indigenous foodways from the cultivation of crops to the preparation of meals are rooted in a time honored understanding of environmental stewardship In this fascinating personal narrative Salmón focuses on an array of indigenous farmers who uphold traditional agricultural practices in the face of modern changes to food systems such as extensive industrialization and the genetic modification of food crops Despite the vast cultural and geographic diversity of the region he explores Salmón reveals common themes the importance of participation in a reciprocal relationship with the land the connection between each group's cultural identity and their ecosystems and the indispensable correlation of land consciousness and food consciousness Salm n shows that these collective philosophies provide the foundation for indigenous resilience as the farmers contend with global climate change and other disruptions to long established foodways This resilience along with the rich stores of traditional ecological knowledge maintained by indigenous agriculturalists Salm n explains may be the key to sustaining food sources for humans in years to come As many of us begin to question the origins and collateral costs of the food we consume Salm n's call for a return to more traditional food practices in this wide ranging and insightful book is especially timely Eating the Landscape is an essential resource for ethnobotanists food sovereignty proponents and advocates of the local food and slow food movements
