The Constant Search:

The Search for Non-Newtonian Gravity Ephraim Fischbach, Carrick L. Talmadge, 2012-12-06 Newton's inverse square law of gravitation has been one of the cornerstones of physics ever since it was proposed 300 years ago. One of its most well known features is the prediction that all objects fall in a gravitational field with the same acceleration. This observation in the form of the Equivalence Principle is a fundamental assumption of Einstein's General Relativity Theory. This book traces the history of attempts to test the predictions of Newtonian Gravity and describes in detail recent experimental efforts to verify both the inverse square law and the Equivalence Principle. Interest in these questions has increased in recent years as it has become recognized that deviations from Newtonian gravity could be a signal for a new fundamental force in nature. This is the first book devoted entirely to this subject and will be useful to both graduate students and researchers interested in this field. This book describes in detail the ideas that underlie searches for deviations from the predictions of Newtonian gravity focusing on macroscopic tests since the question of gravitational effects in quantum systems would warrant a separate work. A historical development is combined with detailed technical discussions of the theoretical ideas and experimental results. A comprehensive bibliography with approximately 450 entries is provided. The Constant Couple, Etc George Farquhar, 1750

The Constant Couple George Farquhar, 1777 The Constant Listener Susan Herron Sibtet, 2017-10-11 In 1907 in a quiet English village Theodora Bosanquet answered Henry James's call for someone to transcribe his edits and additions to his formidable body of work. The aging James had agreed to revise his novels and tales into the twenty-four volume New York Edition. Enter Bosanquet, a budding writer who would record the dictated revisions and the prefaces that would become a lynchpin of his legacy. Embracing the role of amanuensis and creative counterpoint cautiously at first, Bosanquet kept a daily diary over the nine years that she worked with James as their extraordinary partnership evolved. Bosanquet became the first audience for James's compositions and his closest literary associate, and their relationship ultimately resulted in James's famed deathbed dictations. At the same time, the homosexuality of each was an unspoken but important influence on their mutual support and companionship. Susan Herron Sibtet's posthumous novel gifts us with the voice of a young woman writer drawn into the intimate circle of an aging master and is a moving addition to previous literary treatments of James and Bosanquet, even as it hews closer to fact than other works do. The Constant Listener is itself the work of an accomplished poet and will speak to fans of James' historical fiction and themes of art, love, sexuality, and identity. The Theory of Search Games and Rendezvous Steve Alpern, Shmuel Gal, 2006-04-10 Search Theory is one of the original disciplines within the field of Operations Research. It deals with the problem faced by a Searcher who wishes to minimize the time required to find a hidden object or target. The Searcher chooses a path in the search space and finds the target when he is sufficiently close to it. Traditionally, the target is assumed to have no motives of its own regarding when it is found; it is simply stationary and hidden according to a known distribution. e.g. oil or its motion is determined stochastically by known rules. e.g. a fox in a forest.

The problems dealt with in this book assume on the contrary that the target is an independent player of equal status to the Searcher who cares about when he is found. We consider two possible motives of the target and divide the book accordingly. Book I considers the zero sum game that results when the target here called the Hider does not want to be found. Such problems have been called Search Games with the zero sum qualifier understood. Book II considers the opposite motive of the target namely that he wants to be found. In this case the Searcher and the Hider can be thought of as a team of agents simply called Player I and Player II with identical aims and the coordination problem they jointly face is called the Rendezvous Search Problem.

Confronting Power and Sex in the Catholic Church Geoffrey Robinson, 2008. Drawing on his own experience in responding to abuse, Bishop Geoffrey Robinson methodically offers a critique of the church's use and misuse of power from the pope proclaiming infallibility down to the preacher claiming a divine authority for every word spoken from the pulpit. Going back to the Bible and above all to the teaching of Jesus, he presents an approach to sexual morality that is profound, compassionate, and people centered. He stresses the priority of the hierarchy of holiness over the hierarchy of power. He offers nothing less than a vision for a church of the third millennium, a church that wants to see in its members the responsibility appropriate to adults rather than the obedience appropriate to children and wants to help all people to grow to become all they are capable of being. You will love or hate this book but not be able to remain neutral. Through the story of sexual abuse and the church's response, I came to the unshakeable belief that within the Catholic Church there absolutely must be profound and enduring change. In particular, there must be change on the two subjects of power and sex. From the Introduction, Bishop Geoffrey Robinson, who has degrees in philosophy, theology, and church law, was Auxiliary Bishop in the Archdiocese of Sydney from 1984 until his retirement in 2004. In 1994, he was elected by the Australian Bishops to the National Committee for Professional Standards, coordinating the response of the Catholic Church in Australia to revelations of sexual abuse, and from 1997 until 2003, he was co-chairman of this committee.

Shapiro, 2006-08-15 In this book Svi Shapiro explores the ideological and attitudinal functions of schools looking especially at what is called the hidden curriculum He offers both an analysis of the role of education in producing and maintaining attitudes and values that contribute to our competitive socially unequal instrumental consumerist and self oriented culture and a radically different vision for what our schools should be about a vision that focuses on education's role in supporting a more critically reflective socially responsible and compassionate culture Federal and state legislation have propelled schools today in the direction of an increasingly test driven instrumental and individually competitive regime Under these legislative mandates schools are increasingly alienating and stressful places for both students and teachers Most disturbing is that this form of education is not conducive to providing young people with the capacity to cope with the moral cultural spiritual and political challenges of the world they inhabit More than only offering a critique of schools Shapiro proposes a counter vision that can lead to a different kind of culture and society and he discusses strategies for advocating and implementing it Written in a style that is very accessible to a wide range of readers Losing Heart The Moral and Spiritual Miseducation of America's Children is also carefully researched and draws on relevant theory to make a strong case This book speaks to a wide range of readers including academics and students in education sociology anthropology political science and cultural studies public school professionals and the general public interested in education It will appeal to faculty in schools of education who are looking for a text that offers both a critical language and one that speaks to possibility and change
