The Transmission of Kapsiki-Higi Folktales over Two Generations Walter E.A. van Beek, 2016-11-03 This study on Kapsiki

Higi tales compares two corpuses of stories collected over two generations In this oral setting folktales appear much more dynamic than usually assumed depending on genre performance and the memory characteristics of the tales themselves In northeastern Nigeria the author collected these tales twice with a time gap of two generations in order to assess the dynamics of this oral transmission The comparison between the two corpuses shows that folktales are a much more dynamic cultural system than is usually thought These dynamics affect some types of tales more than others reflect social change and intergroup contact but also depend on characteristics of the tales themselves Cognitive approaches of memory shed light on these varieties of transmission as do performance aspects in tale telling in particular ideophones Storytelling

Strategies for Reaching and Teaching Children with Special Needs Sherry Norfolk,Lyn Ford,2017-11-21 This book supplies stories essays lesson plans and specialized storytelling strategies to help teachers level the playing field for all learners and better serve children with special needs More than 57 percent of the over 6 million American children with disabilities are in inclusive i e general classrooms self contained classrooms serve children whose disabilities are either more severe or disruptive As much as 20 percent of the children in an inclusive classroom are identified as disabled with the highest percentage of these having learning disabilities While most classrooms have at least one child with a disability teachers often have little or no training in educating and caring for these children The need for resources that support educators working with children with disabilities or social emotional difficulties is clear This book fills this critical need supplying school and public librarians classroom and special area teachers and storytelling teaching artists with storytelling strategies for reaching and teaching children with special needs in inclusive classrooms self contained classrooms and public and school libraries These full text stories essays and lesson plans from experienced storytelling teaching artists provide educators with a wide range of adaptable storytelling and teaching strategies for specific disabilities and enable storytellers to discover new ways to perform their storytelling magic The book also offers compelling real life anecdotes that demonstrate the impact of these strategies in inclusive and self contained classrooms presents an introduction to the skills of storytelling why they are useful and how to use them and includes suggested modifications for a wide range of disabilities as well as detailed resource lists Watermelons, Walnuts, and the Wisdom of Allah, and Other Tales of the Hoca

Speculative fiction opens doors for imagining beyond what is possible conventional or acceptable Speculative fiction has an acute ear for the social the scientific and for political developments and change all of which are prominent topics

Reproduction and parenthood are pertinent social questions that are constantly renegotiated in various arenas. By investigating representations of family making and reproduction in speculative fiction, the research presented in Populating the Future Families and Reproduction in Speculative Fiction not only adds to the field of speculative fiction scholarship but also contributes to the more general discussion about reproduction and parenting. Speculative fiction operates as thought laboratories that make connections between discourses visible. It highlights power structures that can be difficult to detach and represents difficult and abstract issues more concretely. As such, speculative fiction demonstrates the complex entanglement of reproduction with issues of gender, power, and agency. By facilitating thought experiments and illustrating alternatives, speculative fiction also enables the representation of new family structures and reproductive technologies, thus paving the way for discussions about various practices and their possible consequences. Due to its multidisciplinary approach, this book will be of value to scholars and students of various disciplines such as literature studies, philosophy, ethics, political science, the social sciences, and gender studies. It will also be a useful resource in teacher training programmes as well as to a more general audience interested in speculative literature, politics, society, gender, and ethics.

Cultivating Achievement, Respect, and Empowerment (CARE) for African American Girls in PreK-12 Settings Dr. Patricia J. Larke, Dr. Gwendolyn Webb-Hasan, Dr. Jemimah L. Young, 2016-12-01. Chapters discuss issues impacting the education of African American girls and many of the challenges that they encounter during their schooling experiences. The chapters were written by 24 authors including a school superintendent, university administrator, and professors, classroom teacher, mother, and a 10th grade African American student. The 20 chapters of the book are organized into four sections. Section one introduces the book and provides critical perspectives. Section Two focuses on Curriculum and instruction. Section Three shares information from significant stakeholders while the last section includes other schooling experiences and ends with a powerful poem by a tenth grade African American girl entitled Proud. The forward of the book, written by a Japanese American scholar Valerie Pang, denotes the urgency of the book, noting that the book warms the heart. The book ends with an epilogue written by an African American scholar Tyrone Howard, who has a vested interest in African American males. He shares commanding interest in this scholarship because what happens to African American females impacts African American males and the entire African American community.
