The Woman in White Wilkie Collins, 2008-02-26 Wilkie Collins's classic thriller took the world by storm on its first appearance in 1859 with everything from dances to perfumes to dresses named in honor of the woman in white. The novel's continuing fascination stems in part from a distinctive blend of melodrama, comedy, and realism and in part from the power of its story. The catalyst for the mystery is Walter Hartright's encounter on a moonlit road with a mysterious woman dressed head to toe in white. She is in a state of confusion and distress and when Hartright helps her find her way back to London, she warns him against an unnamed man of rank and title. Hartright soon learns that she may have escaped from an asylum and finds to his amazement that her story may be connected to that of the woman he secretly loves. Collins brilliantly uses the device of multiple narrators to weave a story in which no one can be trusted and he also famously creates in the figure of Count Fosco the prototype of the suave, sophisticated evil genius. The Woman in White is still passed as a masterpiece of narrative drive and excruciating suspense. Introduction by Nicholas Rance.

Film and Suspense Altan Löker, 2005 An important fact about films stage plays is that the creation the creators of the most successful of them are shrouded in mystery This is true especially about Shakespeare Hitchcock other top filmmakers of Hollywood in general This book unveils the secret of the success of the masters of drama as summarized below A good film is the one that gives to the spectator the impression of witnessing real events Certain story events provide real pleasure to the spectator independently from the activities of the story characters make him her wish those events to be real This process of wishing enjoying the result wishing it to be real is the most solid basis of the illusion of reality but cannot satisfy all of his her needs It is relatively easy to please the spectator but difficult to make him experience fear Story telling consists of pleasing scaring the audience The spectator can be rewarded by showing him her what he she likes to see wishes to be real therefore sees as real But how he she can be punished made to fear real punishment The answer is to induce free floating anxiety in his her mind This response is a consequence of the spectator s repressed guilt caused by the morally unacceptable but unavoidable side consequences of his her acceptable wishes In this book the generation of free floating anxiety is explained in detail it is shown that Shakespeare knew about this phenomenon in some form and made it the basis of his dramatic technique Hitchcock learned its theory from Freud its use in drama from Shakespeare Hitchcock s Psycho and The Birds are analyzed in full partially shot by shot Shakespeare s Hamlet King Lear and Othello are analyzed also in full partially line by line The nature of suspense how it is generated are explained its relation to conflict guilt free floating anxiety hopes fears action the illusion of reality are clarified exemplified Sartain's Union Magazine of Literature and Art ,1851

Writing Architectures Hélène Frichot,Naomi Stead,2020-10-29 Architects and fiction writers share the same ambition to imagine new worlds into being Every architectural proposition is a kind of fiction before it becomes a built fact likewise every written fiction relies on the construction of a context in which a story can take place This collection of essays explores what happens when fiction experimental writing and criticism are combined and applied to architectural projects and problems It begins with ficto criticism an experimental and often feminist mode of writing which fuses the forms and genres of essay critique and story and extends it into the domain of architecture challenging assumptions about our contemporary social and political realities and placing architecture in contact with such disciplines as cultural studies literary theory and ethnography These sixteen newly written pieces have been selected for this volume to show how fictio critical writing can be a powerful vehicle for creative architectural practice providing new opportunities to explore modes of writing about architecture both within and beyond the discipline The collection represents a broad range of geographical and cultural positions including indigenous and non Western contexts and includes a foreword and afterword by important thinkers in the domains of architectural criticism Jane Rendell and cultural studies ethnography Stephen Muecke
