The Marketing / Accounting Interface Robin Roslender,Richard M.S. Wilson,2013-09-13 When marketing managers and financial managers join forces within any business the result can often be poor communication on financial criteria and goals The risk of this situation occurring is inevitably present when those with different professional backgrounds and roles are working in accordance with their own norms In his seminal 1956 paper on general systems theory the economist Kenneth Boulding referred to the phenomenon of specialised ears and generalised deafness which can be seen to exist when marketing managers are financially illiterate or when financial managers lack the necessary insights to design implement and operate accounting systems which are useful to marketing managers in carrying out their roles It is increasingly difficult to attach credence to the idea of marketing managers who lack financial skills or financial managers who fail to relate to the context in which marketing managers operate Understanding the marketing accounting interface is therefore important in generating emergent properties from the interaction of marketers and accountants whereby the whole is greater than the sum of the parts The chapters in this volume seek to address this challenge This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Management

MANAGEMENT AND COST ACCOUNTING COLIN M. DRURY, 2013-12-11 Performance Measurement in Non-Profit Organizations Patrizia Gazzola, Stefano Amelio, 2022-09-26 Performance Measurement in Non Profit Organizations The Road to Integrated Reporting addresses the issue of performance measurement in nonprofit companies with the aim of defining a system of useful measures to understand manage and improve the performance of such companies by employing systems theory to examine their conditions of existence and manifestations of life From the proposed company model follows that the system of performance measures should make it possible to keep under control both the productive transformation with the physical technical efficiency indicators and the economic transformation with the economic efficiency indicators and the financial transformation with the financial efficiency indicators and finally the managerial transformation with the effectiveness indicators taking into account the degree of satisfaction of the expectations of the main categories of company stakeholders Readers will understand that economic analysis alone is not sufficient to assess the performance of such organizations but it is necessary to unite it with the analysis of sustainability dimensions It would therefore be appropriate to draw up an integrated report that combines the economic and financial dimensions with the pillars of sustainability as in the case of companies in the second sector There is a gap in the literature in this area that this book aims to fill making it a valuable resource to researchers academics and advanced students interested in performance evaluation of NPOs

Educational Innovation in Economics and Business III Richard G. Milter,John E. Stinson,Wim H. Gijsselaers,2013-03-09 Almost thirty years ago a friend involved in the education profession told me that in his estimation much more was caught by students outside of classrooms than was taught within those hallowed walls This statement has stuck with me through years of personal schooling working as a high school teacher working in management serving as a management consultant and trainer and facilitating learning on university campuses across the US eastern Europe and Asia Learning by doing is certainly something most people have experienced But the fact that there is more opportunity to learn more things today as never before with knowledge doubling every 20 months makes learning by doing more complicated As organizations move to respond to the rapid changes in their environments people within those organizations must face the uncertainty and ambiguity that comes with such conditions The one thing most futurists agree on is that the future will be very different than the present Exponential change has become commonplace Companies used to worry about redefining their goals and specific describing their place in an industry Today in order to survive they must be constantly addressing the issues inherent in redefining their industries
