Stockbreeders P. Boomgaard, David E.F. Henley, 2021-11-15 Historians of Southeast Asia have traditionally preferred to write about politics and culture rather than economics and ecology and where they have looked at the history of agriculture they have most often concentrated on cash crops like sugar coffee and rubber which figure prominently in colonial records Smallholders and stockbreeders by contrast provides a rare survey of the history of foodcrop farming and a unique look at the history of animal husbandry in the Southeast Asian region Thirteen contributions by an international selection of expert authors cover topics ranging from the agricultural economy of precolonial Java to the growth of rice production in the Mekong Delta since 1950 and from the breeding of horses on the northern borderlands of mainland Southeast Asia to the production and consumption of beef in the Philippines New light is shed on old questions regarding the directions in which Southeast Asian agriculture has evolved over the centuries and new questions raised regarding the cultural demographic economic and political determinants of farming practices While the geographical and chronological scales of analysis vary most chapters deal with relatively large areas and with developments over periods of 100 years or more Besides production for subsistence commercial aspects of livestock and foodcrop farming are also given due attention and prove to have been important in many parts of the region from very early periods Smallholders and stockbreeders is essential reading for anyone interested in the agricultural history of Southeast Asia whether for its own sake or in connection with other aspects of regional history or for purposes of comparison with other parts of the world Hikayat Hang Tuha (atau Hikayat Hang

Barnard,2022-04-19 Offering access to an extensive and resource rich hinterland eastern Sumatra was an important trading region between the Melaka Straits and the Minangkabau highlands of Sumatra prior to colonial rule Traditionally under the control of Johor the various communities in eastern Sumatra were united under the leadership of an adventurer named Raja Kecik in the early eighteenth century and formed an independent community along the Siak River Over the next century Raja Kecik and his descendents attempted to gain control over the trade that flowed through the Straits while keeping the numerous communities within their territories united by means of marriage alliances warfare raiding trade and myth By the end of the eighteenth century the multiple centres of authority that constituted Siak represented the dominant Malay community in the Straits of Melaka only to fall into decline due to the rise of British trading communities in Singapore and Penang This book based on VOC Dutch East Indies Company archives and traditional Malay texts examines the rise of a Malay state in the early modern era It focuses on the ecological frontier of eastern Sumatra with its multi ethnic communities and how they were able to transform themselves in the words of an English visitor into a summit of prosperity by the end of the eighteenth century Particular emphasis is placed on the methods used by Siak leaders used unite the disparate communities in the region and how this was viewed in other Malay communities Mapping the Acehnese Past R. Michael Feener,Patrick Daly,Anthony Reed,2011-01-01 Aceh has become best known in our times for its twin disasters the worst earthquake and tsunami of modern times in December 2004 and a long running separatist conflict that rent Indonesia for most of its independent history Although this book emerged from the process of recovery from those traumas it turns the spotlight on a more positive and neglected claim Aceh has on our attention as the Southeast Asian maritime state that most successfully and creatively maintained its independent place in the world until 1874 Like Burma Siam and Vietnam all better protected by geography Aceh has its own story to tell of a unique culture struggling for survival through the European colonial era Unfortunately the sources for this story are scattered since Aceh s own records have not well survived the ravages of climate civil war and eventual foreign conquest To recover its cosmopolitan history an unparalleled range of sources and skills had to be brought together Aceh s central role in the creation of Malay literature out of Arabic Persian Indian and Indonesian elements had to be explored with reference to texts surviving in a dozen world libraries Teuku Iskandar Amirul Hadi The rich archeological record neglected through the long years of conflict had again to be brought into play Daniel Perret and the extensive relations of the Aceh sultanate with the Ottoman Empire Ismail G ksoy and Ismail Kad Andrew Peacock Annabel Gallop Portugal Jorge Alves England Annabel Gallop and the Netherlands Sher Banu and Jean Taylor had to be explored chiefly in European archives by experts in these respective fields The result of this combined work in this volume is the most comprehensive picture so far of sources for the history of Aceh

Muddied Waters P. Boomgaard, David E.F. Henley, 2021-10-01 This book examines the history of human interaction with forest and marine ecosystems in Indonesia Malaysia and the Philippines Rainforests falling to snarling chainsaws and factory trawlers emptying the life out of tropical seas are nowadays among the most familiar images of Southeast Asia Yet the present excessive levels of logging and fishing have emerged only within the last generation Until a few decades ago it was common for marine and forest related economic activities in Southeast Asia to have limited and in the long run rather stable effects on the environment Did this relative stability simply reflect lower population densities less well developed markets and less efficient extraction technologies Or was it the result of successful resource management techniques and institutions If so why have these since failed or been abandoned Seventeen contributions by an international selection of expert authors cover topics ranging from the collection of rattan beeswax and forest resins in the seventeenth century to the management of modern marine nature reserves Muddied waters is essential reading for anyone interested in the environmental history of Southeast Asia whether in connection with other aspects of this particular region or in relation to patterns of environmental change and resource management in other parts of the world

The Logic of the Laws David S. Moyer, 2012-12-11 This study is directed towards providing basic background material for the understanding of South Sumatran social organisation To this end four legal codes from the first half of the nineteenth century are presented and analysed The method used in the analysis is a modification of that used by Levi Strauss for the analysis of myth The author concludes by stating Out of these detailed analyses the most significant phenomenon to emerge is the fact that a relatively small number of formal properties are distributed through a large number of structures within a single legal code and because of their formal similarities these structures are mutually reinforcing
