The Human Mystery Sir John Carew Eccles, 1984 On Disobedience and Other Essays, 1984 The human mystery, 1979 The Human Mystery John C. Eccles, 1989 The Human Mystery Sir John Carew Eccles, 1978 The Human Mystery John C. Eccles, 1979 The Human Mystery J. C. Eccles, 1979 Under the terms of the endowment by Lord Gifford the Gifford Lectures have been an annual event in the University of Edinburgh since 1887 and also in three other Scottish universities According to the will of Lord Gifford they were set up to promote and diffuse the study of Natural Theology in the widest sense of that term in other words the knowledge of God The assignment is for ten lectures and I delivered them from 20 February to 13 March 1978 I chose the theme of the Human Mystery because I believe that it is vitally important to emphasize the great mysteries that confront us when as scientists we try to understand the natural world including ourselves There has been a regrettable tendency of many scientists to claim that science is so powerful and all pervasive that in the not too distant future it will provide an explanation in principle of all phenomena in the world of nature including man even of human consciousness in all its manifestations When that is accomplished scientific materialism will then be in the position of being an unchallengeable dogma accounting for all experience The Human Body as Evolutionary Treasures Michael A. Susko, 2024 The human body can be seen as a treasure that reveals our evolutionary story From the gut microbiome to the neocortex we can envision how layers of evolution have worked to construct us By allowing the body to become our teacher we grow more comfortable with its many dimensions and with the natural world to which it is intimately connected Take a journey with us to explore how we are built and how time's journey left its impress In the end we hope to become more at ease with the wonders of our own bodies and open to the magic that may yet unfold
