development of this document stemmed from specific weaknesses in student reading outcomes and observations of classroom practices during the first two years of implementation of Florida's Reading First program 2003 2004 and 2004 2005 Of special concern is the fact that more than half of the first grade students in Reading First schools are not able to meet the February benchmarks for phonemic decoding skills as assessed by the Nonsense Word Fluency Measure from the Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills DIBELS R and almost half still cannot meet these February benchmarks at the beginning of second grade Furthermore students in Reading First schools show an overall relative decline in oral reading fluency ORF during the first and second grade so that too few 46% meet grade level expectations in ORF at the beginning of third grade compared to 72% and 56% at the beginning of 1st and 2nd grade respectively Overall the data suggest that students in Reading First schools are consistently losing ground relative to grade level expectations in word level reading skills accuracy and fluency between the beginning of first grade and the beginning of third grade In contrast the percentage of students that meet grade level expectations in oral language vocabulary actually increases from the end of kindergarten 39% to the end of third grade 47% In response not only to these student data but also to observations of methods i e lesson structures used during small group teacher led instruction it is recommended that Reading Coaches and Teachers participate in training and have access to continued support in the use of alternative lesson structures to provide small group differentiated instruction and targeted interventions to struggling readers This document was produced by the Florida Center for Reading Research and Just Read Florida
