Story Power

Story Power:

Story Proof Kendall Haven, 2007-10-30 Like Stephen Krashen's important work in The Power of Reading Story Proof collects and analyzes the research that validates the importance of story, story reading and storytelling to the brain development and education of children and adults. Accomplished researcher and storyteller Kendall Haven establishes the need for understanding the research findings in neural psychology and brain development and the value of a common definition of story if one is to fully grasp the importance and necessity of story to the development of the human mind. To support his case he reviews a wealth of research from storytellers, teachers and others who have experienced the power of story firsthand. The author has collected anecdotal experiences from over 100 performing storytellers and from 1,800 story practitioners, mostly teachers who have made extensive use of stories. He has read more than 150 qualitative and quantitative research studies that discuss the effectiveness of stories and/or storytelling for one or more specific applications: education, organizational management, knowledge management, medical and narrative therapy, etc. Forty of these studies were literature reviews and comparative studies including analysis of over 1,000 studies and descriptive articles. He has also gathered research evidence from his own story performances for total audiences of over 4 million and from conducting story writing workshops with 200,000 students and 40,000 teachers.

The Power of Story Jim Loehr, 2007-09-18 New York Times bestselling coauthor of The Power of Full Engagement examines the way we tell stories about ourselves to ourselves and most importantly the way we can change those stories to transform our business and personal lives. Your story is your life, says Loehr. As human beings we continually tell ourselves stories of success or failure, of power or victimhood, stories that endure for an hour or a day or an entire lifetime. We have stories about our work, our families and relationships, our health, about what we want and what we're capable of achieving. Yet while our stories profoundly affect how others see us and we see ourselves, too few of us even recognize that we're telling stories or what they are or that we can change them and in turn transform our very destinies. Telling ourselves stories provides structure and direction as we navigate life's challenges and opportunities and helps us interpret our goals and skills. Stories make sense of chaos; they organize our many divergent experiences into a coherent thread; they shape our entire reality. And far too many of our stories, says Loehr, are dysfunctional in need of serious editing. First he asks you to answer the question: In which areas of my life is it clear that I cannot achieve my goals with the story I've got? He then shows you how to create new reality-based stories that inspire you to action and take you where you want to go, both in your work and personal life. For decades at the Human Performance Institute, Loehr has been examining the power of story to increase engagement and productivity, and Fortune 500 companies have paid millions to send employees to his program in which he applies the principles and methods that he now offers in this book. Global business leaders, world-class athletes, military special forces and thousands of individuals from every walk of life have sought out and benefited from his life-altering insight and expertise. Our capacity to tell stories is one of our profoundest gifts, Loehr

s approach to creating deeply engaging stories will give you the tools to wield the power of storytelling and forever change your business and personal life

Halberstam,2024-07-12 What can early Jewish courtroom narratives tell us about the capacity and limits of human justice By exploring how judges and the act of judging are depicted in these narratives Trial Stories in Jewish Antiquity Counternarratives of Justice challenges the prevailing notion both then and now of the ideal impartial judge As a work of intellectual history the book also contributes to contemporary debates about the role of legal decision making in shaping a just society Chaya T Halberstam shows that instead of modelling a system in which lofty inaccessible judges follow objective and rational rules ancient Jewish trial narratives depict a legal practice dependent upon the individual judge s personal relationships reactive emotions and impulse to care Drawing from affect theory and feminist legal thought Halberstam offers original readings of some of the most famous trials in ancient Jewish writings alongside minor case stories in Josephus and rabbinic literature She shows both the consistency of a counter tradition that sees legal practice as contingent upon relationship and emotion and the specific ways in which that perspective was manifest in changing times and contexts

Sternberg,1999-06-03 In this groundbreaking work Robert Sternberg opens the book of love and shows you how to discover your own story and how to read your relationships in a whole new light What draws us so strongly to some people and repels us from others What makes some relationships work so smoothly and others burst into flames Sternberg gives us new answers to these questions by showing that the kind of relationship we create depends on the kind of love stories we carry inside us Drawing on extensive research and fascinating examples of real couples Sternberg identifies 26 types of love story including the fantasy story the business story the collector story the horror story and many others each with its distinctive advantages and pitfalls and many of which are clashingly incompatible These are the largely unconscious preconceptions that guide our romantic choices and it is only by becoming aware of the kind of story we have about love that we gain the freedom to create more fulfilling and lasting relationships As long as we remain oblivious to the role our stories play we are likely to repeat the same mistakes again and again But the enlivening good news this book brings us is that though our stories drive us we can revise them and learn to choose partners whose stories are more compatible with our own Quizzes in each chapter help you to see which stories you identify with most strongly and which apply to your partner Are you a traveler a gardener a teacher or something else entirely Love is a Story shows you how to find out The Story of Sexual Identity Phillip L.

On Having an Own Child Karin Lesnik-Oberstein, 2018-04-24 How are ideas of genetics blood the family and relatedness created and consumed This is the first book ever to consider in depth why people want children and specifically why people want children produced by reproductive technologies such as IVF ICSI etc As the book demonstrates even books ostensibly devoted to the topic of why people want children and the reasons for using reproductive technologies tend to start with the assumption that this is either simply a biological drive to reproduce or a socially instilled desire This book uses psychoanalysis not to provide an answer in its own right but as an analytic tool to probe more deeply the problems of these assumptions The idea that reproductive technologies simply supply an own child is questioned in this volume in terms of asking how and why reproductive technologies are seen to create this ownness Given that it is the idea of an own child that underpins and justifies the whole use of reproductive technologies this book is a crucial and wholly original intervention in this complex and highly topical area
