Stranger In The Village Of The Sick A Memoir Of Cancer Sorcery And Healing:

Stranger in the Village of the Sick Paul Stoller, 2004 Stranger in the Village of the Sick follows Stoller down this unexpected path toward personal discovery growth and healing The stories here are about life in the village of the healthy and the village of the sick and they highlight differences in how illness is culturally perceived In America and the West illness is war we strive to eradicate it from our bodies and lives In West Africa however illness is your ever present companion and sorcerers learn to master illnesses like cancer and other misfortunes through a combination of acceptance pragmatism and Stranger in the Village of the Sick Paul Stoller, 2005-04-15 After more than fifty years of good health patience anthropologist Paul Stoller suddenly found himself diagnosed with lymphoma The only thing more transformative than his fear and dread of cancer was the place it ultimately took him twenty five years back in time to his days as an apprentice to a West African sorcerer Adamu Jenitongo Stranger in the Village of the Sick follows Stoller down this unexpected path toward personal discovery growth and healing The stories here are about life in the village of the healthy and the village of the sick and they highlight differences in how illness is culturally perceived In America and the West illness is war we strive to eradicate it from our bodies and lives In West Africa however illness is an ever present companion and sorcerers learn to master illnesses like cancer through a combination of acceptance pragmatism and patience Stoller provides a view into the ancient practices of sorcery revealing that as an apprentice he learned to read divining shells mix potions and recite incantations But it wasn t until he got cancer that he realized that sorcery embodied a more profound meaning one that every person could use Sorcery is a body of knowledge and practice that enables one to see things clearly and to walk with confidence on the path of fear Adventures in Blogging Paul Stoller, 2018-04-06 Paul Stoller has been writing a popular blog for the Huffington Post since 2011 Blogging says Stoller allows him to bring an anthropological perspective to contemporary debates but it also makes him a better writer snappier more concise and more focused on the connection he wants to make with readers In this collection of selected blog posts Stoller models good writing while sharing his insights on politics including the emergence of Trumpism and the impact of ignorance on US political practices higher education social science media and well being In the process he discusses the changing nature of scholarly communication and the academy s need for greater public engagement The Future of Scholarly Writing Angelika Bammer, Ruth-Ellen Boetcher Joeres, 2015-09-01 This stimulating collection is the first to take on the issue of form and what it means to the future of scholarly writing A wide range of distinguished scholars from fields including law literature and anthropology shed light on the ways scholars can write for different publics and still adhere to the standards of quality scholarship Communitas E. Turner, 2012-01-02 Communitas is inspired fellowship a group s pleasure in sharing common experiences being in the zone as in music sport and work the sense felt by a group when their life together takes on full meaning The experience of communitas almost beyond strict definition and with almost endless variations often appears unexpectedly Culture And

Cancer Care Dein, Simon, 2005-11-01 This text examines a number of cultural themes in relation to cancer including rates of incidence among ethnic groups cultural variability in cancer treatments and the influence on prognosis complimentary and alternative treatments and palliative care across cultures Cancer Entangled Rikke Sand Andersen, Marie Louise Tørring, 2023-04-14 Cancer Entangled explores the shifts that took place in Denmark around the millennium when health promoters set out to minimize delays in cancer diagnoses in hope of improving cancer survival The authors suggest a temporal reframing of cancer control that emphasizes the importance of focusing on how people potential patients as well as health care professionals experience and anticipate cancer before a diagnosis or a prediction has been made This argument compellingly challenges and augments anthropological work on cancer control that has privileged attention to the productive role of science and technology and to life with cancer or cancer risk By offering rich ethnographic insights into the introduction of the first cancer vaccine cancer signs and symptoms public discourses on delays social class and care seeking cancer suspicion in the clinic as well as the work on fast track referral the book convincingly situates cancer control in an ethical registrar involving attention to acceleration and time showing how cancer waiting times become an index of the state Chronic Illness, Vulnerability and Social Work Liz Price, Liz Walker, 2015-05-01 Whilst the body has of the nation recently assumed greater sociological significance there has been less engagement in social work and social care on the bodily experience of health illness and disease This innovative volume redresses the balance by exploring chronic illness and social work through the specific lens of autoimmunity engaging in wider debates around vulnerability resistance and the lived experience of ongoing ill health Moving beyond existing conceptualisations of vulnerability as an issue of mental distress ageing child protection and poverty Price and Walker demonstrate the role that society has to play in actively engaging the physical body rather than working around and through it The book focuses on auto immune conditions such as lupus multiple sclerosis rheumatoid arthritis and scleroderma Conditions like these allow for an exploration of the materiality of illness which exacerbates social and economic vulnerability and may precipitate personal and social crises requiring a variety of interventions and support The risks and challenges associated with chronic illness include disruptions to a sense of self and identity altered relationships and the renegotiation of roles and responsibilities in a variety of relationships in addition to an economic impact with the potential for disruption to employment status and financial insecurity This text opens up a range of debates around some of the central concerns of the social work profession including vulnerability ill health and independence It will be of interest to scholars and students of social work nursing disability studies medicine and the social sciences Cancer and the Kali Yuqa Cecilia Coale Van Hollen, 2022-10-11 History and hospitals Poverty and chemicals Women and work Screening and morality Disclosure and care Biomedicine and bodies Sorcery and religion The Topic of Cancer Jonathan Burke, 2018-05-01 This book focuses on our emotional responses to cancer by offering a range of perspectives psychoanalytic medical spiritual and religious as well as literary Once suppressed akin to a taboo the topic of cancer is now very much in the public consciousness The prevalence of the disease and well publicised medical advances in its treatment demand it Topic of Cancer begins with Freud's cancer widely known of but rarely understood in its historic and analytic context Psychotherapeutic reflections are then offered on our understanding of the adult and adolescent with cancer and the challenges of sustaining a thoughtful presence in the face of the trauma experienced when a child is diagnosed with cancer and during treatment The dilemmas and challenges faced by today s psychotherapist with cancer are explored next and for the first time in cancer literature an account of the emotional demands on nurses involved in sensitive intimate care With an increasing number of people living longer with cancer survivorship and palliative care are the focus of the chapters that follow The Power of the Between Paul Stoller, 2009-05-15 It is the anthropologist s fate to always be between things countries languages cultures even realities But rather than lament this anthropologist Paul Stoller here celebrates the creative power of the between showing how it can transform us changing our conceptions of who we are what we know and how we live in the world Beginning with his early days with the Peace Corps in Africa and culminating with a recent bout with cancer The Power of the Between is an evocative account of the circuitous path Stoller's life has taken offering a fascinating depiction of how a career is shaped over decades of reading and research Stoller imparts his accumulated wisdom not through grandiose pronouncements but by drawing on his gift for storytelling Tales of his apprenticeship to a sorcerer in Niger his studies with Claude L vi Strauss in Paris and his friendships with West African street vendors in New York City accompany philosophical reflections on love memory power courage health and illness Graced with Stoller's trademark humor and narrative elegance The Power of the Between is both the story of a distinguished career and a profound meditation on coming to terms with the impermanence of all things The SAGE Handbook of Cultural Anthropology Lene Pedersen, Lisa Cliggett, 2021-03-31 The SAGE Handbook of Cultural Anthropology is the first instalment of The SAGE Handbook of the Social Sciences series and encompasses major specialities as well as key interdisciplinary themes relevant to the field Globally societies are facing major upheaval and change and the social sciences are fundamental to the analysis of these issues as well as the development of strategies for addressing them This handbook provides a rich overview of the discipline and has a future focus whilst using international theories and examples throughout The SAGE Handbook of Cultural Anthropology is an essential resource for social scientists globally and contains a rich body of chapters on all major topics relevant to the field whilst also presenting a possible road map for the future of the field Part 1 Foundations Part 2 Focal Areas Part 3 Urgent Issues Part 4 Short Essays Contemporary Critical Dynamics Yava's Storv Paul Stoller, 2014-10-08 Yaya s Story is a book about Yaya Harouna a Songhay trader originally from Niger who found a path to America It is also a book about Paul Stoller its author an American anthropologist who found his own path to Africa Separated by ethnicity language profession and culture these two men's lives couldn't be more different But when they were both threatened by a grave illness cancer those differences evaporated and the two were brought to profound existential convergence a deep camaraderie in the face of the most harrowing of circumstances Yaya's Story is that story Harouna and Stoller would meet in Harlem at a bustling African market where Harouna built a life as an African art trader and Stoller was conducting research Moving from Belayara in Niger to Silver Spring Maryland and from the Peace Corps to fieldwork to New York Stoller recounts their separate lives and how the threat posed by cancer brought them a new profound and shared sense of meaning Combining memoir ethnography and philosophy through a series of interconnected narratives he tells a story of remarkable friendship and the quest for well being It's a story of difference and unity of illness and health a lyrical reflection on human resiliency and the shoulders we lean on With the Saraguros David Syring,2015-01-15 The first humanistic portrait of life among southern Ecuador's Saraguros this work includes a meditative self reflection on the author's role as anthropologist the role of cross cultural understanding in the Andean Highlands and beyond and the meaning of the good life in different cultural contexts it further considers how contemporary globalization shapes people's lives and thought

Complementary and Alternative Medicine Ruth Barcan, 2020-05-26 Alternative therapies once the province of the hippie counterculture are now a mainstream phenomenon But they are more than a medical and economic sensation At once spiritual and bodily medical and recreational they are an enormously popular cultural practice bound up with the pleasure seeking drive of consumer culture as well as with spiritual and neo liberal values Complementary and Alternative Medicine critically examines this phenomenon which some denounce as the triumph of superstition over reason by asking practitioners themselves what makes these therapies so appealing Drawing on a wealth of interviews with Complementary and Alternative Medicine CAM practitioners as well as on the author's longstanding participation in CAM culture the book provides a much needed look from both the inside and the outside of the CAM phenomenon This book is essential reading for students and scholars of cultural studies anthropology sensory studies and sociology The Anthropologist as Writer Helena Wulff, 2016-03-01 Writing is crucial to anthropology but which genres are anthropologists expected to master in the 21st century This book explores how anthropological writing shapes the intellectual content of the discipline and academic careers First chapters identify the different writing genres and contexts anthropologists actually engage with Second this book argues for the usefulness and necessity of taking seriously the idea of writing as a craft and of writing across and within genres in new ways Although academic writing is an anthropologist s primary genre they also write in many others from drafting administrative texts and filing reports to composing ethnographically inspired journalism and fiction Ritual and Christian Beginnings Risto Uro, 2016-04-29 The rise of early Christianity has been examined from a myriad of perspectives but until recently ritual has been a neglected topic Ritual and Christian Beginnings A Socio Cognitive Analysis argues that ritual theory is indispensable for the study of Christian beginnings It also makes a strong case for the application of theories and insights from the Cognitive Science of Religion a field that has established itself as a vigorous movement in Religious Studies over the past two decades Risto Uro develops a socio cognitive approach to the study of early Christian rituals seeking to integrate a social level analysis with findings from the cognitive and evolutionary sciences Ritual and Christian Beginnings provides an overview of how ritual has been approached in previous scholarship including reasons for its neglect and introduces the reader to the emerging fields of Ritual Studies and the Cognitive Science of Religion In particular it explores the ways in which cognitive theories of ritual can shed new light on issues discussed by early Christian scholars and opens up new questions and avenues for further research The socio cognitive approach to ritual is applied to a number of test cases including John the Baptist the ritual healing practiced by Jesus and the early Christians the social life of Pauline Christianity and the development of early Christian baptismal practices The analysis creates building blocks for a new account of Christian beginnings highlighting the role of ritual innovation cooperative signalling and the importance of bodily actions for the generation and transmission of religious knowledge The Shadow Side of Fieldwork Athena McLean, Annette Leibing, 2008-04-15 The Shadow Side of Fieldwork draws attention to the typically hidden or unacknowledged aspects of ethnographic fieldwork encounters that nevertheless shape the resulting knowledge and texts Addressing these invisible elusive unspoken or mysterious elements introduces a distinctive rigor and responsibility to ethnographic research Luminaries in anthropology dare to explore the unspeakable and invisible in the ethnographic encounter Considers personal and professional challenges ethical epistemological and political faced by researchers who examine the subjectivities inherent in their ethnographic insights Explores the value and limitations of addressing the personal in ethnographic research Includes a critical discussion of the anthropologist's self in the field Introduces imaginative rigor to ethnographic research to heighten confidence in anthropological knowledge Making in Santa Clara del Cobre Michele Avis Feder-Nadoff, 2024-05-27 This book introduced with a Foreword by Tim Ingold offers a nuanced reflection on the meaning of making and artisan agency demonstrating how copper smithing produces not only objects but also lives worlds meanings and social transformation Through long term ethnography grounded in apprenticeship to master coppersmith Jes s P rez Ornelas Feder Nadoff s intimate description of communal and artisanal life in Santa Clara del Cobre Michoac n M xico provides a critical reappraisal of aesthetics and compelling ways to think about how aura and agency are produced By mapping flows and frictions between persons places and things this study closes the gap between economic and socio political analysis of craft on the one hand and aesthetic material and phenomenological studies of making on the other Although craft historically plays a prominent national even ideological role in Mexico as in many countries most artisans ironically remain absent often living in marginalized precarious circumstances By tracing the cycles of life death and afterlife of these maker protagonists their bodies of knowledge skilled performances and objects this poetic monograph testifies to their presence The Restless Anthropologist Alma Gottlieb, 2012-03-05 What does a move from a village in the West African rain forest to a West African community in a European city entail What about a shift from a Greek sheep herding community to working with evictees and housing activists in Rome and Bangkok In The Restless

Anthropologist Alma Gottlieb brings together eight eminent scholars to recount the riveting personal and intellectual dynamics of uprooting one s life and decades of work to embrace a new fieldsite Addressing questions of life course research methods institutional support professional networks ethnographic models and disciplinary paradigm shifts the contributing writers of The Restless Anthropologist discuss the ways their earlier and later projects compare on both scholarly and personal levels describing the circumstances of their choices and the motivations that have emboldened them to proceed to become novices all over again In doing so they question some of the central expectations of their discipline reimagining the space of the anthropological fieldsite at the heart of their scholarly lives
