Country company towns during the boom years of 1890 to 1918 Alison K Hoagland s Mine Towns investigates how the architecture of a company town revealed the paternal relationship that existed between company managers and workers a relationship that both parties turned to their own advantage The story of Joseph and Antonia Putrich immigrants from Croatia punctuates and illustrates the realities of life in a booming company town While company managers provided housing as a way to develop and control a stable workforce workers often rejected this domestic ideal and used homes as an economic resource taking in boarders to help generate further income Focusing on how the exchange between company managers and a largely immigrant workforce took the form of negotiation rather than a top down system Hoagland examines surviving buildings and uses Copper Country s built environment to map this remarkable connection between a company and its workers at the height of Michigan s largest land rush Riding the Roller Coaster Charles K.
