Grafting Helen Matthew Gumpert, 2012-11 History is a love story, a tale of desire and jealousy, abandonment and fidelity, abduction and theft, rupture and reconciliation. This contention is central to Grafting Helen. Matthew Gumpert's original and dazzling meditation on Helen of Troy as a crucial anchor for much of Western thought and literature. Grafting Helen looks at classicism, the privileged rhetorical language for describing cultural origins in the West as a protracted form of cultural embezzlement. No coin in the realm has been more valuable, more circulated, more coveted, or more counterfeited than the one that bears the face of Helen of Troy. Gumpert uncovers Helen as the emblem for the past as something to be stolen, appropriated, imitated, extorted, and coveted once again. Tracing the figure of Helen from its classical origins through the Middle Ages, the French Renaissance, and the modern era, Gumpert suggests that the relation of current Western culture to the past is not like the act of coveting; it is the act of coveting. He argues for it, relies on the same strategies, the same defenses, the same denials, and the same delusions.

Landscapes of Dread in Classical Antiquity Debbie Felton, 2018-04-27 Over the last two decades, research in cultural geography and landscape studies has influenced many humanities fields, including Classics, and has increasingly drawn our attention to the importance of spaces and their contexts, both geographical and social. How spaces are described by language, what spaces are used for by individuals and communities, and how language use and the passage of time invest spaces with meaning. In addition to this spatial turn in scholarship, recent years have also seen an emotive turn, an increased interest in the study of emotion in literature. Many works on landscape in classical antiquity focus on themes such as the sacred and the pastoral, and the emotions such spaces evoke, such as, respectively, feelings of awe or tranquillity in settings both urban and rural. Far less scholarship has been generated by the locus terribilis, the space associated with negative emotions because of the bad things that happen there. In short, the recent emotive turn in humanities studies has so far largely neglected several of the more negative emotions, including anxiety, fear, terror, and dread. The papers in this volume focus on those neglected negative emotions, especially dread, and they do so while treating many types of space, including domestic, suburban, rural, and virtual, and while covering many genres and authors, including the epic poems of Homer, Greek tragedy, Roman poetry, and historiography, medical writing, paradoxography, and the short story.
