The Greatest World's Strangest Animals the Human Heyward Sanders, 2017-12-23 Time had permitted me to understand that information is strictly prohibited and may contain confidential or legally privileged and protected knowledge for some, but does it mean the information is true that protecting a few or misinformation for the ones it's prohibited not to acknowledge? That saying the truth will set you free or do it and it will set us back? I heard all the sayings and how they became rhymes to make them have a better sound affect. That the sound affects created a comfortability lifestyle where some walk around proudly. Which resulted in destroying all things that can challenge their ego. That itself created a wall of prisons around them in a mentally way anything others might say have no effect to them. Even what animals bring to their attention they will still refuse to recognize what might be facts through careful research. The humans during time had created a destructive behavior against life and taking arms against anyone or things that will prove them wrong which created a disrespect against the planet earth. In this book you will hear the things that we humans are part of the animal family things we refuse to recognize. We have everything in us that all creatures have in and on them: a head with eyes, nose, ears, mouth on the outside of the head; on the inside of the head we have a brain, tongue and teeth; our body has on the outside neck, arms, hands, legs, feet, toes and private parts; on the inside heart, liver, kidney, stomach, digestive system and more. But the only advantage we think is in our favor is our mind because of the things we create to improve the human lifestyle. We recognize our supremacy over the land and acquired an appetite for destruction that is greater than all the animals put together. Which we give no credit to any of the creature in helping us towards understanding our place in the world. I believe if one refuses to acknowledge the things that make you aware then one will never understand how to use what was brought to their attention in the proper way. Why is that?

World's Weirdest Animals Matt Roper, 2017-11-09 It seems as though some creatures have been put on this earth just to amaze us. From the harmless but hilarious to the truly frightening and deadly, the animals in this book are guaranteed to keep you enthralled, astonished and extremely amused.
