The United States and Asia Robert G. Sutter,2019-10-17 Now in a fully revised and updated edition this cogent book provides an overview of the historical context and enduring patterns of U S relations with Asia. Noted scholar Robert G Sutter offers a balanced analysis of post Cold War dynamics in Asia which involve interrelated questions of security economics national identity and regional institution building. He demonstrates how these critical concerns manifest a complex mix of realist liberal and constructivist tendencies that define the regional order. He describes how the United States has responded to Asia's growing strength and importance while at the same time trying to maintain its leading position as an Asian power despite China's rising influence. Considering the most important transition in American policy toward Asia since the end of the Cold War, Sutter assesses the growing U S China rivalry that now dominates both regional dynamics in the Asia Pacific and U S policy in the region.

Chinese and Indian Strategic Behavior George J. Gilboy, Eric Heginbotham, 2012-03-12. Politics Government

Russo-Chinese Energy Relations Stephen Blank, 2006. This report makes the point that in both Russia and China it is politics and not market or commercial considerations that largely drive energy relationships with each other and the outside world. For both countries energy and energy security is regarded as a strategic asset and or objective that are at risk from outside forces. The conditions that each state has attached to their energy policies ironically preclude the kind of easy cooperation seen in other strategic and political issues between Moscow and Beijing. In both Central and Northeast Asia Russia has blocked Chinese efforts to realize its version of energy security yet it has not been able to come up either with the resources or means for a coherent policy of supplying China with reliable quantities of energy that would lead China away from non Russian producers. The under fulfilment of the potential for Russia to supply China will continue and continue as well to be a source of strain in their relationship.
