St. John Off the Beaten Track Gerald Singer, 2019-08-15 A guide to the beaches snorkeling hiking trails and points of interest including history culture and environment of St John USVI Slave stories Gunvor Simonsen, 2017-12-15 In the Danish West Indies hundreds of enslaved men and women and a handful of Danish judges engaged in a broken often distorted dialogue in court Their dialogue was shaped by a shared concern with the ways slavery clashed with sexual norms and family life Some enslaved men and women crafted respectable Christian self portraits which in time allowed victims of sexual abuse and rape to publicly narrate their experiences Other slaves stressed African Atlantic traditions when explaining their domestic conflicts Yet these gripping stories did not influence the legal system While the judges cunningly embraced slave testimony they also reached guilty verdicts in most trials and punished with extreme brutality Slaves spoke but mostly to no avail In Slave Stories Gunvor Simonsen reconstructs the narratives crafted by slaves and traces the distortions instituted by Danish West Indian legal practice In doing so she draws us closer to the men and women who lived in bondage in the Danish West Indies present day US Virgin Islands in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Indian and Scout: A Tale of the Gold Rush to California F. Mr Ebenezer Clayhill was a man who impressed his personality upon one so that those who had once obtained but a passing glimpse of him could not fail but recognise him however long afterwards Fust it s his nose what strikes yer had declared old Isaac Webster when ensconced with his bosom friends of an evening down in the snug parlour of the Three Pigeons It s just the most almighty one as ever I seed and I ve seed a power of noses I have Mr Jarney He sniffed and looked across at that individual as if he challenged him to disprove the statement or even to doubt it for Jarney was a cross grained fellow an old weather beaten boatman into whose composition quite a considerable quantity of salt seemed to have been absorbed The man was short in stature and in manner There was an acidity about his voice which made him the reverse of popular though when he held forth in the cosy parlour of the public house there were few who failed to listen for Jarney had travelled Unlike Isaac Webster he had not been a stay at home all his days but had seen things and people which were strange for the most part to the old cronies who gathered together of an evening No one dare dispute Jarney s statements for to do so was to lay oneself open to a course of scathing biting sarcasm in which Jarney excelled Isaac coughed finding that Jarney had failed to answer I ve seed a power of noses I have Mr Jarney he repeated in his most solemn tones The boatman comfortably quartered in a huge arm chair in the centre of the circle about the blazing fire twisted his eyes round till they were fixed on the speaker He pulled the short clay which he was smoking out of his mouth with a hand bearing many a tar stain and contemplated it with much interest His lips curled back in what was meant to be a derisive smile then back went the pipe between his toothless gums You ve seed a sight of noses you have Mr Webster he growled Well so has we all There s noses all round us most of the day I could yarn to yer about a nigger man way out in the Caroline Islands who d a nose that you couldn t pass in a day s walk it war that big and attractive But you was talkin of this here Ebenezer Clayhill Him as ain t long come to these parts interposed another of the men gathered about the fire Him as you re acting gardener to Mr Webster Or rather him as has gone and married the lady as you ve been gardener to this three years past ventured a third Mrs Harbor that was now Mrs Ebenezer Clayhill Webster nodded at the circle It was true enough that he was gardener at The Haven the house occupied by Mrs Clayhill and it was also true enough that that lady had recently married for but a few months before she had been known as Mrs Harbor The folks at Effington a little fishing hamlet along the Hampshire coast were sufficiently acquainted with the lady already for in a small place there is not much news and what there is quickly becomes common property But Mr Clayhill was a recent importation of whom the villagers were as yet almost ignorant so that Isaac Webster who naturally enough had better opportunities of knowing him than the others at Effington had been called upon to give his opinion on his new master Well as I was sayin when I was interrupted Isaac began again glaring across at the old salt lounging in his chair I was sayin that the fust thing you notice is his nose it s that big and red I d swear to it in a court of law without a quiver Then there s his eyes ain t they sharp just For the rest of him I don t know as there s much to say He seems a pleasant spoken gentleman though I ain t so sure as he don t want already to cut down wages The announcement short as it was provided food for conversation for the rest of that evening and we may be sure that Mr Ebenezer was as frankly and as completely discussed in the parlour of the Three Pigeons as he had ever been in his life before But we were saying that he was a man who impressed his personality upon every one and Isaac was not by any means wrong when he stated that Ebenezer s nose was the chief characteristic It arrested one s attention at the first instant till one realised that further scrutiny would be a rudeness and promptly fixed one s gaze on some other part of his person Elsewhere there was not much that was favourable for the gentleman who had so recently married Mrs Harbor was some fifty years of age and had a decidedly shifty air His eyes were placed closer together than is customary while his jowly cheeks his pendulous eyelids and the lines and seams about his face seemed all to accentuate the immediate impression of distrust which he inspired For the rest he was moderately tall stout and broad shouldered and very bald Three months after his marriage when he had settled down at The Haven Mr Ebenezer Clayhill was engaged one day within his study The morning post had brought him a number of bulky documents and these lay spread out before him One in particular seemed to occupy his attention for he perused its contents for the third time at least and sat regarding the lines thoughtfully Slowly as he took in the meaning of the document his fat hands came together and he rubbed them over one another as if he were particularly pleased His small pig like eyes lit up ever so little while the lines across forehead and face smoothed themselves out a trifle
