A Chronicle of the Life of Thomas Moore

HOWARD MUMFORD KINES

Thomas Moore has not yet been given a full justice which should be given to his life, to his work, to his character, to his influence on the world of letters, and on the world of human feeling, with which, in the days of their life, they were inseparably connected.

From Castle Rackrent to Castle Dracula Paul E. H. Davis, 2011 Paul E H Davis and the Irish Land Question In his challenging new book Paul E H Davis offers an entirely new critique of how novelists in nineteenth century Ireland had to act both as writers and historians in their attempts to find a solution to what became the Irish Land Question Challenging the widely held nationalist view that Irish novelists of this period had little or nothing to offer Davis slots these castaway novelists into a new identifiable category the agrarian novelists The book is divided into three parts Part One considers novelists writing between the Union and the Famine Maria Edgeworth Gerald Griffin John and Michael Banim and William Carleton Part Two looks at how the agrarian novel emigrates with reference to the novels of Charles Kickham and to the Irish novels of Anthony Trollope Part Three considers how some agrarian novelists specifically Thomas Moore and Bram Stoker felt the solution lay not in the real world but in the world of fantasy An exceptional book on why the agrarian novelists deserve to be valued for their unique perception of Ireland in the nineteenth century

Scottish and Irish Romanticism Murray Pittock, 2011-05-19 Scottish and Irish Romanticism is the first single author book to address the main non English Romanticisms of the British Isles Murray Pittock begins by questioning the terms of his chosen title as he searches for a definition of Romanticism and for the meaning of national literature He proposes certain determining triggers for the recognition of the presence of a national literature and also deals with two major problems which are holding back the development of a new and broader understanding of British Isles Romanticisms the survival of outdated assumptions in ostensibly more modern paradigms and a lack of understanding of the full range of dialogues and relationships across the literatures of these islands The theorists whose works chiefly inform the book are Bakhtin Fanon and Habermas although they do not define its arguments and an alertness to the ways in which other literary theories inform each other is present throughout the book Pittock examines in turn the historiography prejudices and assumptions of Romantic criticism to date and how our unexamined prejudices still stand in the way of our understanding of individual traditions and the dialogues between them He then considers Allan Ramsay's role in song collecting hybridizing high cultural genres with broadside forms creating in synthetic Scots a language really used by men and promoting a domestic public sphere Chapters 3 and 4 discuss the Scottish and Irish public spheres in the later eighteenth century together with the struggle for control over national pasts and the development of the cults of Romance the Picturesque and Sentiment Macpherson Thomson Owenson and Moore are among the writers discussed Chapter 5 explores the work of Robert Fergusson and his contemporaries in both Scotland and Ireland examining questions of literary hybridity across not only national but also linguistic borders while Chapter 6 provides a brief literary history of Burns descent into critical neglect combined with a revaluation of his poetry in the light of the general argument of the book Chapter 7 analyzes the complexities of the linguistic and cultural politics of the national tale in Ireland through the work of Maria Edgeworth while the following chapter considers of Scott in relation to the national tale Enlightenment historiography and the European nationalities question Chapter 9 looks at the importance of the Gothic in Scottish and Irish Romanticism particularly in the work of James Hogg and Charles Maturin while Chapter 10 Patriotism explores a new concept in the manner in which Scottish and Irish literary political and military figures of the period related to Empire

Stanton, 2012 Our perception of life at Monticello has changed dramatically over the past quarter century The image of an estate presided over by a benevolent Thomas Jefferson has given way to a more complex view of Monticello as a working plantation the success of which was made possible by the work of slaves At the center of this transition has been the work of Lucia C. Stanton recognized as the leading interpreter of Jefferson's life as a planter and master and of the lives of his slaves and their descendants This volume represents the first attempt to pull together Stanton's most important writings on slavery at Monticello and beyond Stanton's pioneering work deepened our understanding of Jefferson without demonizing him But perhaps even more important is the light her writings have shed on the lives of the slaves at Monticello Her detailed reconstruction for modern readers of slaves' lives vividly reveals their active roles in the creation of Monticello and a dynamic community previously unimagined The essays collected here address a rich variety of topics from family histories including the Hemingses to the temporary slave community at Jefferson's White House to stories of former slaves' lives after Monticello Each piece is characterized by Stanton's deep knowledge of her subject and by her determination to do justice to both Jefferson and his slaves Published in association with the Thomas Jefferson Foundation From Song to Print T.

E. Vaughan, 2010-04-01 A New History of Ireland is the largest scholarly project in modern Irish history In 9 volumes it provides a comprehensive new synthesis of modern scholarship on every aspect of Irish history and prehistory from the earliest geological and archaeological evidence through the Middle Ages down to the present day Volume VI opens with a character study of the period followed by ten chapters of narrative history and a study of Ireland in 1914 It includes further chapters on the economy literature the Irish language music arts education administration and the public service and emigration
