Taylor, 2014-10-28 A contemplation on the durability of our fast tracked multitasked modern world a stimulating cautionary report for the digital age Kirkus Reviews We live in an ever accelerating world faster computers markets food fashion product cycles minds bodies kids lives When did everything start moving so fast Why does speed seem so inevitable Is faster always better Drawing together developments in religion philosophy art technology fashion and finance Mark C Taylor presents an original and rich account of a great paradox of our times how the very forces and technologies that were supposed to free us by saving time and labor now trap us in a race we can never win The faster we go the less time we have and the more we try to catch up the farther behind we fall Connecting our speed obsession with today's global capitalism he composes a grand narrative showing how commitments to economic growth and extreme competition combined with accelerating technological innovation have brought us close to disaster Psychologically environmentally economically and culturally speed is taking a profound toll on our lives By showing how the phenomenon of speed has emerged Taylor offers us a chance to see our pace of life as the product of specific ideas practices and policies It s not inevitable or irreversible He courageously and movingly invites us to imagine how we might patiently work towards a more deliberative life and sustainable world With panache and flashes of brilliance Taylor a Columbia University religion professor and cultural critic offers a philosophically astute analysis of how time works in our era Publishers Weekly
