Takeoff For Taiwan:

From Development to Democracy Dan Slater, Joseph Wong, 2024-08-20 Why some of Asia's authoritarian regimes have democratized as they have grown richer and why others haven't. Over the past century Asia has been transformed by rapid economic growth, industrialization and urbanization, a spectacular record of development that has turned one of the world's poorest regions into one of its richest. Yet Asia's record of democratization has been much more uneven despite the global correlation between development and democracy. Why have some Asian countries become more democratic as they have grown richer while others, most notably China, haven't? In From Development to Democracy Dan Slater and Joseph Wong offer a sweeping and original answer to this crucial question. Slater and Wong demonstrate that Asia defies the conventional expectation that authoritarian regimes concede democratization only as a last resort during times of weakness. Instead, Asian dictators have pursued democratic reforms as a proactive strategy to revitalize their power from a position of strength. Of central importance is whether authoritarians are confident of victory and stability. In Japan, South Korea and Taiwan, these factors fostered democracy through strength, while democratic experiments in Indonesia, Thailand and Myanmar were less successful and more reversible. At the same time, resistance to democratic reforms has proven intractable in Singapore, Malaysia, Hong Kong, China, Vietnam and Cambodia. Reconsidering China's 1989 crackdown, Slater and Wong argue that it was the action of a regime too weak to concede, not too strong to fail, and they explain why China can allow democracy without inviting instability. The result is a comprehensive regional history that offers important new insights about when and how democratic transitions happen and what the future of Asia might be.

The Political Economy of Taiwan's Development into the 21st Century Gustav Ranis, Sheng-Cheng Hu, Yun-Peng Chu, 1999-02-24 a welcome book of particular use to graduate schools. A. J. H. Latham, Asia Pacific Business Review. Over the past four decades Taiwan has achieved remarkable economic growth. In this important book, a distinguished group of contributors employs a comparative perspective to explore the reasons behind and the lessons to be learned from Taiwan's success.

The Other Taiwan, 1945-92 Murray A. Rubinstein, 2016-09-16 Examines the effects of the socio-economic post-war transformation on Taiwan's political system, environment, religious structures, the relationships between the sexes, and the different ethnic populations. A complex revisionist portrait of the country emerges.

Development Digest, 1968 A quarterly journal of excerpts, summaries and reprints of current materials on economic and social development.

The Rise and Fall of the East Asian Growth System, 1951-2000 Huang Xiaoming, 2004-11-10 Huang examines a recurring pattern of rapid economic growth in East Asia from 1951 to the present and explores how far a single East Asian Growth model can be said to exist. Assessing the various theories put forward to explain the phenomenon and supported by the most comprehensive data, the book finds that methods of institutional enhancement were at the core of the growth. This institutional enhancement affected state structure and functions, economic policy, corporate arrangements, social structure and relations, individual behaviour and domestic and international interaction Each of these elements was a critical aspect of the growth system that defined and propelled the rapid growth Development Research Digest ,1968 Consequences of Small-farm Mechanization International Rice Research Institute,1983 Contemporary China in the Post-Cold War Era Bih-jaw Lin,James T. Myers,1996 Consists of 17 papers delivered at the 23rd Sino American Conference on Contemporary China held in Taipei in June 1994 Contributors from the fields of economics political science international relations sociology and Asian studies analyze recent changes in politics economics foreign relation Globalization and the Rise of Mass Education David Mitch,Gabriele Cappelli,2019-10-24 This edited collection explores the historical determinants of the rise of mass schooling and human capital accumulation based on a global long run perspective focusing on a variety of countries in Europe the Middle East Asia Africa and the Americas The authors analyze the increasing importance attached to globalization as a factor in how social institutional and economic change shapes national and regional educational trends Although recent research in economic history has increasingly devoted more attention to global forces in shaping the institutions and fortunes of different world regions the link and contrast between national education policies and the forces of globalization remains largely under researched within the field The globalization of the world economy starting in the nineteenth century brought about important changes that affected school policy itself as well as the process of long term human capital accumulation Large migrations prompted brain drain and gain across countries alongside rapid transformations in the sectoral composition of the economy and demand for skills Ideas on education and schooling circulated more easily bringing about relevant changes in public policy while the changing political voice of winners and losers from globalization determined the path followed by public choice Similarly religion and the spread of missions came to play a crucial role for the rise of schooling globally

Culture and Customs of Taiwan Gary M. Davison,Barbara Reed,1998-09-24 Taiwanese society is in the midst of an immense exciting effort to define itself seeking to erect a contemporary identity upon the foundation of a highly distinctive history This book provides a thorough overview of Taiwanese cultural life The introduction familiarizes students and interested readers with the island's key geographical and demographic features and provides a chronological summary of Taiwanese history In the following chapters Davison and Reed reveal the uniqueness of Taiwan and do not present it simply as the laboratory of traditional Chinese culture that some anthropologists of the 1950s through the 1970s sought when mainland China was not accessible The authors examine how religious devotion in Taiwan is different from China in that the selected deities are those most relevant to the needs of the Taiwanese people Literature and art particularly of the 20th century reflect the Taiwanese quest for identity more than the grand Chinese tradition The Taiwanese architecture festivals and leisure activities music and dance cuisine and fashion are also highlighted topics The final chapter presents the most recent information regarding children and education and explores the importance of the Taiwanese family in the context of meaningful relationships amongst acquaintances friends and institutions that make up the social universe of the Taiwanese
