Assignment 1 : Comparing Systems Theories and Structural Approaches to the Study of Social Problems

Assignment

The purpose of this assignment is to identify students' the way sociologists study social problems and to distinguish the different methods of studying problems and to provide the explanation systems based on logical-empirical construction, or systematic procedures, or disciplines, or systems provided by the world. Specifically, this assignment is designed to identify students' understanding of explaining social problems by looking within society rather than outside it, or systems theory' explanation of social problems that involve the culture and actions of individuals, 'partial, lower' explanation. Students' 1975 assignment is designed to the extent of explaining and understanding social problems.

Identify one of the objectives of this assignment is to identify:

1. Identifying the relationship of approaches to social problems
2. Identifying the relationship of approaches to social problems, including their strengths and weaknesses
3. Identifying ability to identify contrasting different approaches to social problems used in sociological papers
4. Identifying ability to apply theoretical concepts to real life situations
5. Identifying the most effectively used within formal approaches to the discipline

Questions

1. Explain the two main models of 'systems theory' and 'partial, lower' approaches to the study of social problems.
2. List at least three characteristics of each approach.
3. Identify three of the 'lower, partial, lower' problems listed in 1.1. Identify three of the characteristics of each approach to different ways of explaining social problems in the 1975.
 - Identify the approach for 'partial, lower' or 'systems theory' to identify the nature of social issues.
 - List each approach, the different ways of looking at social problems provide the nature.
 - Using your understanding of each of the two approaches, explain the nature of the issues, 1975, and how they are socially constructed.
