Social Skills Training Manual Jill Wilkinson, Sandra Canter, 1982 Social Skills Training Manual Jill Wilkinson, Sandra Canter, 1982 Social Skills for Nursing Practice Peter French, 2025-09-17 The acquisition of professional interpersonal skills remains one of the key skills in the practice of nursing Originally published in 1983 and as a second edition in 1994 this established book maintains that social skills can be learnt and that patient care can improve by anticipating and preventing problems The book shows how nurses can develop personally and professionally by actively learning social skills in preference to their haphazard acquisition in practice Drawing on a wide body of writing research and nursing theory each chapter concludes with reflective activities and self evaluation tasks and is preceded by learning objectives Social Skills Training and Psychiatric Nursing Owen Hargie, Patrick J. McCartan, 2025-09-17 When it was originally published in 1986 this book was one of the few to be written on social skills and mental health specifically for nurses Yet it is nurses who are uniquely placed to improve the skills of those with mental illness since it is they who often have most contact with patients or clients This book examines the place of social skills training in the practice of psychiatric nursing It provides relevant background to the evidence for limited social skills in psychiatric patients and the expanding role of the nurse and considers more practical elements such as selection and assessment of patients for a programme goal setting role play feedback and group versus individual approaches The book also analyses relevant skills themselves such as nonverbal communication and being assertive The book is aimed at both trained and student psychiatric nurses International Handbook of Cognitive and Behavioural Treatments for Psychological Disorders V.E. Caballo, 1998-11-27 This handbook shows the wide perspective cognitive behavioural treatment can offer to health professionals the vast majority of whom now recognize that cognitive behavioural procedures are very useful in treating many mental disorders even if certain disciplines continue to favour other kinds of treatment This book offers a wide range of structured programmes for the treatment of various psychological psychiatric disorders as classified by the DSM IV The layout will be familiar to the majority of health professionals in the description of mental disorders and their later treatment It is divided into seven sections covering anxiety disorders sexual disorders dissociative somatoform impulse control disorders emotional disorders and psychotic and organic disorders Throughout the twenty three chapters this book offers the health professional a structured guide with which to start tackling a whole series of mental disorders and offers pointers as to where to find more detailed information The programmes outlined should it is hoped prove more effective than previous approaches with lower economic costs and time investment for the patient and therapist Effective Communication Skills for Health Professionals Philip Burnard, 2013-12-14 Therapeutic Interventions for Forensic Mental Health Nurses Alyson Kettles, Phil Woods, Mick Collins, 2002 This book explores current and emerging interventions in forensic nursing and the care of the mentally disordered offender with an emphasis on clinical practice and clinical competence It explores the practical issues facing forensic nurses such as

environment and safety issues as well as the possible emotional trauma of such a role

Psychological Treatment of Older Adults Michel Hersen, Vincent B. Van Hasselt, 2013-06-29 This multiauthored introductory textbook could not have been conceived or brought to fruition 10 or 15 years ago Indeed at that time relatively little attention was accorded to the psychological needs of older adults The general tenor of the field then was that older adults would not benefit from psychological intervention As we now know this was a faulty assumption that has been discredited with empirical data Indeed clinical research data adduced primarily in the last decade clearly documents that older adults do benefit from specific psychotherapies that are tailored to their unique presentation of symptoms Given the explosion of interest in this area as evinced by increased investigatory activity national funding and media attention and the increased number of masters and doctoral level courses devoted to this topic we felt that the time was right for a textbook in the area Such flurry of activity also has been fueled by statistics showing how our population by the year 2030 will consist of 30% who are senior citizens Moreover since 12% of older adults in the community are estimated to have diagnosable psychiatric disorders and 40% to 50% of older adult medical inpatients have a concomitant psychiatric disorder the task for clinicians in the next century will be overwhelming

The Health and Social Needs of Young Adults with Physical Disabilities Andrew Thomas,Martin Bax,Diane Smyth,1989 This book addresses a topic that has received surprisingly little attention to date the health and social needs of young adults with physical disabilities Following an extensive review of the contemporary literature on the subject the authors report an in depth study on a large sample of physically disabled 18 to 25 year olds living in two survey areas one urban and one semirural The study which included pediatric examinations and interviews by a social psychologist found that a large proportion of subjects face social and medical problems for instance They have serious health needs that are not being met by the statutory services they left school with less than adequate skills to enable them to lead an independent adult life they are without a daytime occupation or attend day centers that are described as unstimulating places they do not receive all the financial benefits to which they are entitled they are isolated from their peers and lack the social skills to interact with others in a positive and successful way Parents and guardians were also found to receive little physical or emotional support These findings underline the need for a better system of providing and coordinating services for this client group and the authors call for the formation within each local health authority area of an Adult Disability Service that would have a clinical and planning role in terms of health care and that would act as a linchpin in the coordination of health educational social and voluntary services Although this work relates specifically to service provision in the United Kingdom it is felt that the conclusions and recommendations are also broadly applicable to the situation in other countries Counselling for Stress Problems Stephen Palmer,Windy Dryden,1994-12-20 Seminars by Professor Windy Dryden See the man live and in action To find out more and to book your place go to www.cityminds.com

_____ A welcome addition to the series The co authors have endeavoured to give a thorough and practical guide to this vast subject and they have managed to do this within the confines of an easy to read cheap and relatively short paperback a very useful practical volume for the general counsellor to have on their book shelf Counselling The Journal of the British Association for Counselling and Psychotherapy This comprehensive guide views stress counselling and management from a multimodal perspective Clear guidelines show practitioners how they can give their clients the most effective help for their stress problems using a technically eclectic and systematic approach The authors discuss the symptoms and causes of stress and outline a framework in which stress problems can be understood They emphasize the importance of assessment as a guide to the selection of multimodal interventions and of tailoring the counselling approach for each client Chapters discuss the range of interventions that can be used cognitive imagery behavioural sensory interpersonal and health lifestyle and the most useful techniques that can be employed within these models such as disputing irrational beliefs coping imagery psychodrama relaxation training and assertion training Case examples illustrate commonly used techniques The Waksman Social Skills Curriculum for Adolescents Steven Waksman,Deborah Denney Waksman,1998
